Brown Seeks Tough Traffic Cases Action

SACRAMENTO (AP)—A sharp rise in California's highway death toll jarred Gov. Edmund G. Brown today and brought a plea to the state's judges to get tougher with traffic violators.

At the same time, Brown called for a review of the parole system in the aftermath of the killing of four law enforcement officers by hoodlums with jail records.

The governor opened his news conference by announcing this "very bad news."

Up to Sunday midnight, 779 persons had lost their lives in auto accidents since Jan. 1, compared with 711 for the same period last year. This is a 9.5 per cent increase.

"We must take some action," Brown said.

He said he would ask the courts to be stricter in their enforcement.

For one thing, he urged that motorists cited for moving violations be required to come into court instead of being allowed to forfeit bail.

Asked whether he though the judges were lax, he said, "no, not lax—I just say they have to be tougher." He said some highway patrolmen feel they are not being supported by the courts but that these were isolated cases.

The governor said he hoped the legislature would enact his traffic safety program. It includes the hiring of 75 more patrolmen, use of radar to detect speeders, chemical tests for drunken drivers, mandatory seat belts and use of some plain cars by highway patrolmen.

Brown said he wants to bring a group to discuss the problem raised by the recent slaying of four law officers.

He said California has 12,000 persons on parole, with only 150 parole agents to supervise them.

Machine Prints Without Contact

Patent rights for a new process expected to have major impact on the printing industry were granted by the U.S. government today to a new firm headed by a youthful Ross businessman.

The process is called electrostatic or pressureless printing. It permits rapid, inexpensive, high quality impressions on virtually any material — from building bricks to fresh fruits and vegetables.

The process was invented by Clyde Childress and Louis J. Kabell in the engineering sciences division at Stanford Research Institute, Menlo Park. Patent rights have been assigned to Electrostatic Printing Corp. of America, which sponsored the research at SRI.

President of Electrostatic Printing is Jerome Flax of 10 Lagunitas Road, Ross. Childress, the co-inventor and a former Mill Valley resident, has become associated with Flax in the company, which has its office and development laboratory in San Francisco.

Printig equipment employing the electrostatic process will be marketed under a licensing arrangement. The Russer Co. of San Francisco already has been licensed in the food and drug field, Flax announced. Employing a printing machine (not a press) built by Filper Corp. of Oakland, Russer recently concluded demonstrations of printing on apples and potatoes at Yakima, Wash.

The apples were fed through the machine at 200 per minute as "Washington" was printed in edible coloring on each — without the slightest bruise or mar to the fruit.

The newly-patented process involves screening dry ink par-

CRIPPLED AIRPLANE DOWN SAFE

HILO, Hawaii (AP)—A crippled Military Air Transport Service plane carrying 85 persons skimmed nearly 1,200 miles over the Pacific on two of four engines today and landed safely.

It had only enough fuel for 13 more minutes of flying when it touched down.

A third engine failed and a tire blew as the big Super Constellation landed.

Two engine failures had forced it to turn back from a California flight only 20 minutes short of the point of no return.

"The passengers acted very well when told of the emergency; there was no panic," said Navy Lt. Cmdr. Robert L. Ekelund, 41, of Los Altos, the plane commander.

But one of the 76 passengers, Mrs. Yoko Oray, Japanese-born wife of an American serviceman confided:

"I was scared."

The passengers included five service wives and nine children.

Ekelund was asked on landing to say how old he is.

"Right now . . . about 60," he replied.

"We lost the No. 4 engine shortly after midnight when we were 937 mile out of Hickam (Honolulu)," he said in review of the flight which originated in Japan.

"As we turned back to Hickam, No. 3 froze. I was only 20 minutes short of the point of no return (a point just beyond halfway)."

State Told Medic Aid Dilemma

By RANDALL GOULD

A State Department of Finance official listened seriously in Marin County supervisors chambers yesterday as a series of local spokesmen drove home that a too-penurious policy of his department may have doomed the state-federal Medical Assistance for the Aged program after May 1 in Marin.

"A problem we have no way of solving" was Supervisor Peter Behr's summary of the dilemma created by state-set monthly nursing home payments after May 1 below the possible Marin minimum, coupled with laws forbidding the county from making up the deficit.

Points driven home to Leslie E. Waight, medical fees consultant for the state finance department, included:

1. The recently proposed $48 monthly addition to the state's new $219 basic rate actually would amount in practice to only $18.

2. The highest attainable state payment, counting extras not actually possible to collect here and presuming the $272 "extensive care" payment rather than the more usual basic $219, would total only $320.

3. The county hospital's estimate of cost per patient here has been $348 monthly — a figure now outdated.

4. Marin General Hospital

Transit System Bond Proposal Is Rejected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy administration rejected today a bond guarantee program to help cities build mass transit systems and called again for approval of its own 500-million-dollar mass transit plan.

The bond guarantee program introduced by Sen. Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), would "not provide a workable solution to the critical mass transportation problems of our urban areas," Federal Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver told a Senate Commerce Subcommittee.

Court Supports Cycle Appraisal

The first district court of appeals in San Francisco yesterday upheld a Marin County Superior Court decision in favor of County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel's so-called cycle reappraisal program.

County Counsel E. Warren McGuire said the appellate court decision practically puts an end to any legal question of the fairness of the property reappraisal system which selects one part of the county each year for new appraisal.

Mary A. Lord, Sausalito property owner, filed suit against the county two years ago, claiming the assessor's system was "fraudulent, unlawful, discriminatory and void."

She argued that it was not fair for her property to be appraised for new assessments until all property in the county had been similarly appraised.

In December, 1961, the Marin Superior Court decided in favor of the county. The case was appealed, and yesterday's appellate decision was handed down by Judge P. J. Kaufman.

Judge Kaufman wrote that the "appellant made no argument that she was being treated differently from other taxpayers with similar property in the reappraisal district." He said the assessor clearly showed that it was not possible to reappraise all areas in the county in one year, and that property within a given area was given fair treatment.

Therefore, the district court ruled there was "merely a question of law" and the cyclic reappraisal system is fair as advocated by the State Board of Equalization.

EX-PRINCIPAL CHAIRMAN OF MARIN GRAND JURY

Marin County's new grand jury, impanelled last night, will meet twice monthly—at 1:30 p.m. on the second Thursday and 8 p.m. on the fourth Thursday.

This was decided last night at an organizational meeting, after formal induction of the 19 new grand jurors before Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court.

Edwin A. Wells, retired principal at San Rafael High School, is foreman of the jury. A secretary has not yet been chosen.

Other members of the jury are:

Alfred J. Bianchi, Point Reyes dairyman; Jesse E. Berry Sr., Marin City electrician; Robert C. Cook, Mill Valley business executive; Stanley Cowen, Sausalito, retired; Donald F. Donohue, Novato theater owner; Charles P. Davies, Novato business executive.

Mrs. Caroline C. Ericson, Belvedere housewife; Mrs. Alice P. Ehlen, Sausalito housewife; William C. Herup, San Rafael retired merchant; Emil Renati, Novato building contractor; Leroy Rudolph, San Rafael banker; Manuel E. Silva, Mill Valley salesman.

Louis J. Stefani, San Rafael, retired water district superintendent; George J. Silvestri Jr., San Rafael merchant; Gordon W. Strawbridge, Belvedere-Tiburon printer; Mrs. Doris A. Wilhelm, Kentfield housewfie; Mrs. Lila M. Wolf, Ross housewife, and Edward G. Younger, San Rafael union business agent.

The 19 jurors were drawn from a venire of 24, who were in the courtroom last night. One nominee, Harold Morgan, San Rafael engineer, had withdrawn earlier because of pressure of his business. The other five, eliminated by the drawing last night, were James Adams of San Rafael; Sebastian Cimino of Fairfax, Wagner J. d'Alessio of Ross, William D. Krelle of San Anselmo, and Alden Stock of Kentfield.

Council Is Stymied On Giampoli Ouster

The San Rafael City Council last night found itself stymied again on what, if anything, it could do about the ouster of Police Lt. Nick Giampoli.

Councilmen read a letter submitted by William J. Murphy, attorney for Giampoli, which held that Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa was without authority to fire the lieutenant last December.

Giampoli, appearing in person, said the Marin Superior Court had held in 1940 that the city charter did not give the chief of police power to select or discharge personnel.

Mayor John F. McInnis said city ordinances on personnel had been changed since then, but whether this affected the issue, he did not know.

"It looks like about all we can do is to start all over again and this time go by the charter," said Councilman Fred E. Jensen.

City Atty. A. E. Bagshaw was absent. Lacking his advice, Mayor McInnis asked Giampoli to be patient, and put the matter over again—until April 1, one week before San Rafael voters will decide at the polls whether Giampoli, Chiesa or Vernon D. Thomas Jr. shall be police chief for the next four years.

Supervisors Will Appoint Park Director

Marin County supervisors today overruled an effort by the county parks and recreation commission to appoint its new director.

Asst. Personnel Director Robert D. Elliott brought matters to a head while reporting arrangements for an all-day oral examination April 1 for the newly created job of county director of parks and recreation.

Elliott said he had told the commission, itself appointed by the supervisors, that the supervisors would choose the director after the field had been narrowed to five candidates. This didn't suit the commission, which passed a resolution asking that the applicants be certified to it for selection.

"Such commissions are creatures of this board," said acting Chairman William D. Fusselman. "This is out of line. We make all appointments."

Supervisor Peter Behr noted the parks and recreation commission would have a member on the oral board. The commission's effort to seize the appointing power "is not palatable to me," he said.

The board asked Elliott to conduct the oral examination as scheduled, then bring the top five candidates before the supervisors at 9 a.m. the following day, which is the board's regular meeting day.

Mrs. Helen Newman, commission chairman, and Planning Director B. D. Dobbs will be invited to give their advice to the supervisors before the latter make the appointment.

I-J Offers To Purchase City Area

San Rafael City Councilmen listened with interest last night to a proposal that the Independent-Journal buy the city hall property and lease it back to the city for city hall and/or parking use.

The proposal was put forth by Roy A. Brown, Independent-Journal publisher, as the council was discussing a possible temporary move of some or all city departments.

Brown said the I-J would like to acquire the entire property, which abuts the Independent-Journal Building, without reservations; but he hastened to add, "However, we recognize the problems."

As a solution to the city's need for more off-street parking and to the newspaper's need for expansion, he proposed:

The Independent - Journal would buy the city hall lot but put only the rear portion of it to use. The front portion where the city hall stands—130 feet frontage on A Street to a depth of 103 feet on Fifth Avenue and Julia Street — would be leased back to the city for up to 10 years, for just enough to cover the taxes. The city could then convert it into a parking lot immediately, or wait until a new city hall is completed to do so.

This would provide a parking lot "about the same size as the city lot on C Street," Brown said.

Councilman David Menary Jr. suggested this would make possible using money from parking district bonds, with which it had been proposed to

Supervisors Approve Leasing Fairgrounds Land To YMCA

Youth took precedence over age today as Marin County supervisors apporved the idea of leasing fairgrounds land to the YMCA for construction of a "youth civic center" on the site originally intended for use by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

The Y had asked to lease up to three acres of either Civic Center or fairgrounds for its projected building for older youth. County Administrator Alan Bruce reported the fairgrounds seemed preferable.

Attorney Leland H. Jordan, present on behalf of the Y, was asked by acting Chairman William D. Fusselman if he was sure there would be no duplication of school functions.

"We shall start where the schools end, in our opinion," Jordan responded. "We'll do things the schools don't have time for.

"We feel that the location is advantageous. This will be the county center for all teen-age cultural and recreational activities and it will serve both girls and boys."

Bruce said that the senior council is in process of dissolving and its lease will cease to exist automatically, thus clearing the way for the project serving teen-agers.

Auditor Michael Mitchell said the project was one with which state officials are likely to be in full sympathy.

The board authorized Bruce to work with Jordan and the county counsel in preparing further details.

Plans given the board provide for a teen-age recreation center including multi-purpose room, kitchen, lounges with fireplace, three or four meeting rooms, staff offices and other facilities, all to cover 8,000 to 10,000 square feet and cost between $150,000 and $200,000.

Allen Dulles, Governor Back Braden For Education Post

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Thomas W. Braden, controversial president of the State Board of Education, got strong backing from Gov. Edmund G. Brown and Allen W. Dulles today.

Dulles, former director of the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, commended Braden's work as an assistant director of the CIA.

Brown told his news conference, "it would be tragic to California if the chairman of the Board of Education who has done so much would not be confirmed by the Senate . . ."

The Senate Rules Committee is scheduled to consider Brown's reappointment of Braden to the Board on Thursday. Opponents have claimed they have enough votes to block confirmation on the floor if the committee approves the appointment.

Dulles, in a letter asked by Braden in response to what he called "shocking rumors" about him, had this to say:

"Dear Tom:

"I have been told that a rumor has been circulated to the general effect that your association with the Central Intelligence Agency was terminated for some reason other than your own volition.

". . . I wish to assure you . . . that your services with the agency were of the highest value and importance . . .

"It was to my great regret . . . when you of your own volition for financial reasons . . . decided you would no longer serve with us.

". . . You were sorely missed. While I have retired as director of CIA, I would be very glad to give the same reassurance to those who might wish to inquire of me."

Brown, asked what he planned to do if the appointment were not confirmed, said, "I refuse to consider any possibility."

'Pirates' Take Part Of Bridge

Rollin H. Taylor, maintenance superintendent at the bridge, reported to the Marin sheriff yesterday that a 15-foot aluminum scaffold plank was stolen from under the piers at the Marin end of the bridge.

The thieves must have used a boat because the scaffold could be seen only from the water under the bridge.

Declaration Of San Jose Due

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica (AP)—President John F. Kennedy set out today to translate a personal triumph into meaningful policy guidelines acceptable to the United States and the leaders of six Latin American nations.

Kennedy, who received a wildly enthusiastic welcome yesterday from nearly 200,000 Costa Ricans, scheduled morning and afternoon meetings with the presidents of Panama and the five Central American republics.

Their aim was to draft by nightfall a "declaration of San Jose" which Kennedy said he hoped would help "improve the life of our peoples" and "increase our capacity to prevent the infiltration of Cuban agents, money and propaganda" into the nations of the Western Hemisphere.

Cooper's Atlas Missile Arrives

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—The Atlas missile scheduled to boost astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. into orbit has arrived here for several weeks of preflight checkouts.

Cooper, who is to make a space trip of at least 22 orbits lasting 34 hours, was on hand when the rocket was unloaded from a plane which ferried it from the General Dynamics-Astronautics plant in San Diego.

Cooper's flight is set for May 7 at the earliest.

Russ Planes Fly Over Carrier

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Four long-range Russian reconnaissance planes made nine passes over the huge aircraft carrier Constellation in the Pacific March 16.

The Defense Department announced the episode yesterday. The "snooping"—the third such case reported recently—took place 600 miles west of Midway Island.

The carrier's radar spotted the long-range bear reconnaissance planes when they were more than 200 miles away. Jet intercepters from the Constellation carried out a "routine aerial intercept" about 100 miles from the ship.

Strike Deadlock

NEW YORK (AP)—Publishers of New York's eight closed newspapers have declared they will not accept any change in a peace pact proposed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner. Striking printers have rejected the settlement.

The publishers said yesterday their decision was final and "we see no reason for further meetings, as our position will not change."

Wagner then said he saw "no sense in continuance of negotiations" and dismissed both sides.

Bertram A. Powers, president of striking Local 6 of the International Typographical Union conceded the situation was deadlocked.

REDWOOD CITY (AP) — Jimmie Wayne Watson, 23, a former Marine corporal, was sentenced yesterday to five years to life for beating his 3-year-old stepson to death.

'People Deceived'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — News publishers, editors and broadcasters accused the government today of deceiving the American people during the Cuban crisis. They warned that this imitates Communist techniques.

The news media representative told the House government information subcommittee that the government has no right to lie to the public in any situation short of all-out war or unless national security is vitally involved.

A spokesman for the American Newspaper Publishers Assn. demanded "complete and categorical repudiation" of the theory that the government can lie to the public. ANPA Vice President Gene Robb, publisher of the Albany (N.Y.) Times-Union and Knickerbocker News, said "telling the truth is the highest and most desirable expression of our government's policy."

EXILES SAY CUBA SHELLED IN RAID

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Cuban exile commandoes shelled a Soviet military camp and a Soviet ship in a hit-and-run raid on a northern Cuban port city, anti-Castro groups report. Some Russians were killed, they said, and the raiders escaped.

Havana radio reported last night that some wounded Russian sailors had been taken to a hospital, but the broadcast did not mention any raid.

The State Department said it had no information on the raid, and it and the Pentagon made no comment.

Spokesmen for two Cuban exile groups, Alpha 66 and the Second National front of Escambray, said members of their organizations staged the attacks Sunday night. Alpha 66 and the Second Front joined forces last fall and have carried out raids on Cuba before.

The attack was described this way:

The raiders divided into two camps just offshore from Sagua la Grande in Las Villas Province. One group went ashore to a small town called Isabela la Sagua and shelled the Soviet military camp. The others stayed in the boat and lofted cannon shells into the ship.

One of the artillery shells hit the stack carrying the hammer and sickle, the report said.

In New York, Antonio Vaciana, head of Alpha 66, said the raiders already have returned to a secret base in the Caribbean and that he expected a full report via short wave radio to Alpha 66 in Miami.

Details of the raid will be disclosed at a news conference in Washington, he said.

The initial report of the raid—the first one made in several months — came in a Miami radio broadcast by "The Voice of the People." This is the refugee program that first reported the presence of Soviet troops in Cuba.

Alpha 66, an action group which does not deal in the fractured politics of most exile groups in Miami, claimed credit for shooting the British ship Newfame and two Cuban vessels in a raid Sept 10.

Among the best known of the numerous exile groups in Miami, Alpha 66 and the Second front had been relatively inactive since the United States tightened its policing of such raids after the Cuban crisis.

Launching an attack against a foreign country from U.S. territory is against the law.

Alpha 66 has headquarters in Miami, Puerto Rico and New York.

Governor Is Pushing Ahead With Budget-Balancing Plan

SACRAMENTO (AP)—Gov Edmund G. Brown pushed ahead today with his "windfall" plan for balancing the state budget in the face of stiff Republican opposition.

He said, in effect: It's either that or more taxes.

A special message to the legislature outlined the Democratic governor's previously announced proposals for bringing in more cash without higher tax rates.

This is what Brown wants:

End installment payments on bank, corporation and income taxes after next Jan. 1; start collecting the levies on a current basis.

Install a withholding tax on personal income, effective next July 1, with a 25 per cent forgivness of the 1964 tax.

This is what Brown said it would do:

" . . . Enable us to finance the services of state government through the 1964-65 fiscal year without new or higher taxes."

Assemblyman Don Mulford (R-Piedmont) chairman of the Assembly's Republican caucus, predicted flatly that withholding would be rejected by the legislature.

Brown estimated his plan, which includes some other changes, would bring in 386 million dollars over a three-year period. Of the total, 282 million dollars would be one-time windfalls.

The governor noted that his 3.25-billion-dollar budget for 1963-64 calls for general fund expenditures of 2.11 billion dollars, an increase of 187 million dollars over this year. Revenues are estimated at 1.94 billion dollars leaving a gap of 165.3 million dollars.

Brown figures his plan would raise 139 million dollars during 1963-64. In addition, 26 million dollars in tideland oil royalties would be shifted to the general fund. In 1964-65, the program, including withholding, would yield 151 million dollars and 96.1 million dollars the following year.

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP)—When, if ever, are the 1960s going to soar?

Maybe they'll take off about 1965, if we have good luck and lower taxes. Once aloft, the economy could be swept into the 1970s on the updraft of an unprecedented wave of family formation.

So says Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, who recently observed that up to now this decade could be called the "slightly soggy 1960s."

Ever since the baby binge that followed World War II, experts have been predicting a business boom in the 1960s. The baby crop would mature, marry, and set off widening waves of demand by building houses, choosing furniture, buying cars and television sets, and starting its own crop of babies.

Now the seers are less certain. Too many newcomers to the labor market are finding the "no vacancy" sign up. The real tidal wave of young job-hunters hasn't yet arrived.

If the oncoming millions don't find employment, the soaring 60s could turn out to be the slumping 60s, with ever-quickening automation diminishing the job opportunities for a swiftly growing labor force.

Heller is optimistic. The big push of family formation, he told an interviewer, apparently will develop three or four years from now, and it should be an economic blessing rather than a burden.

Originally most demographers—those who study population trends and their effects—judged that the economic impact of family formation would be felt by 1964 or 1965. Today there is less agreement on the timing, but the experts still believe that the stork brings prosperity.

Some predict the lift will be delayed until the threshold of the 70s. Wilson Wright, chief economist of Procter and Gamble Co., holds that the heavy spending of the average couple comes above five years after the wedding.

"This means that the bulge in family formation around the middle of this decade probably won't be really significant in terms of production and expenditure until the end of the decade," Wright said in a recent issue of U.S. News & World Report.

Another industry economist, George Cline Smith, said, more tersely: "The 60s will soar—but it may take until the 70s."

Chairman Heller favors a guess of 1966 or 1967 by which time, he believes, the economy should already be on the rise.

But he disagrees emphatically with the idea that the country can relax, secure in the knowledge that a demographic time—bomb is ticking away, biding its hour to blast away the effects of years of underemployment.

An era of unprecedented economic expansion is possible, according to Heller, but it will not be bestowed on Americans solely by "the bounty of providence and procreation."

"By 1970 one-third of the labor force will consist of young people who have entered it since 1960," Heller said.

"That tremendous impouring of labor could help or hurt, depending on the policy we follow.

"We face the necessity of generating enough demand to put these young millions to work."

The job generating device on which the White House has pinned its hopes is a net 10 billion dollars worth of tax reduction, which Heller estimates will increase consumer and business demand by three or four times that much.

If favorable credit and other policies accompany the tax stimulus, and if no unforeseen calamities happen along, the country could attain substantially full employment by 1965, he has suggested. Quite close behind will come the fresh wave of sustained consumer demand generated by the spending and borrowing of the young-marrieds.

"The coming influx of young workers is the main reason why we are confident that a 10-billion-dollar tax cut would not be too large," Heller added. "Our productive capacity will grow so enormously that it can meet an unprecedented surge of demand without causing inflation."

What if things go wrong? Suppose that a major industry should take a nosedive—that the commercial building boom, to use an unlikely but conceivable example, should collapse suddenly?

The White House economist conceded that a serious setback in any important segment of the economy would be a serious matter. It would tend to cancel out the stimulative effect of tax cuts—and make it harder to get the 60s airborne.

That is a risk which would be run in any case, and one which would be lessened by tax reduction. There can be no guarantee, said Dr. Heller, that the coming massive infusion of youthful brains, skill and energy will be utilized as it should be.

But, he added: "Our labor force will grow three or four times as rapidly as that of Europe. The influx will be a great and relatively easy-to-top source of economic growth."

VIEW MARIN THROUGH ORIENTAL EYES—Chris Goh (left) of Singapore and Kyung Yul Kim of Korea, both attending College of Marin, look over the college campus as they discuss impressions of the United States. They don't agree on many things about this country.

NORTH OR SOUTH

Students From Asia Split On California

By FRED WYATT

Kyung Yul Kim, 28, son of an exporter-importer of Seoul, Korea, prefers Marin to Southern California because "I can't concentrate in Los Angeles—it's too busy."

Chris Goh, 22, son of a Singapore businessman, prefers the Los Angeles area to Northern California, feeling the people farther south are "more fun-loving and there's better living there."

But both foreign students, who enrolled at College of Marin last fall, prefer Marin's small communities to the big cities as places to learn about the American way of life. They agree Marin residents are kinder and more hospitable than those in larger communities.

After completing his studies at Marin, Kim plans to attend University of California at Berkeley for a master's degree and a doctorate in economics. Then he hopes to teach at the University of Seoul.

Kim said his native South Korea is still largely an agricultural land, but with American aid is gradually becoming more nearly self-sufficient, with erection of new factories each year.

Kim spent from March, 1962, to last October at the John Adam Adult School in San Francisco, principally learning to speak English more proficiently.

He expressed dismay at one aspect of San Francisco: "I seemed to meet more foreigners there than native Americans. This was no help in learning to speak your language better."

Kim gained his unfavorable impression of Los Angeles from a two-day visit.

The Korean got one pleasant surprise in the United States. He said: "I had the idea that Americans were lazy because of the 40-hour week. But I find your people work harder in 40 hours than some do in my own land in 50 or 60 hours."

Goh came to the United States in the fall of 1961, and spent a year at Oceanside-Carlsbad College near San Diego. He switched from a chemistry major to business recently. He plans to transfer from Marin to University of California at Berkeley or Los Angeles, and later complete his education in England or Canada.

Goh said that, although Singapore now is an independent city-nation apart from Malaya and with its own prime minister, it still is under strong British influence. A British education therefore is important, he said.

Goh spent part of last summer selling encyclopedia sets in Los Angeles. The freeways there, instead of perplexing him as they do many Americans, pleased him as a means of fast transit.

Despite the activity Goh has seen in Los Angeles, he thinks the nation can work harder.

"I agree with President Kennedy that production should be increased to reduce unemployment," he said. "I believe that in a nation like this everyone should have a decent job."

Both Kim and Goh are active in the college's international relations club, which from time to time hears talks with colored slides on various nations.

Notre Dame's football team will play four Big Ten rivals this season. They meet Purdue, Michigan State, Northwestern and Iowa.

APPRAISAL IS ORDERED FOR NEW PARK LAND

Appraisal of a six-acre parcel abutting the new Eichler Homes subdivision as first of three proposed neighborhood parks on the Terra Linda side of the hill was authorized last night by the San Rafael City Council.

Joseph D. Rodota, city recreation director, asked the council also to signify approval of two park sites in the portion of Terra Linda itself which is within the city limits. But no vote was taken on this.

The six-acre site is at the end of De La Guerra Road. It is owned by the Nunes family. Rodota said he had a letter John G. Buresh, suggesting that $6,700 per acre might be a fair price.

The other two proposal sites are at the end of Devon Drive behind Terra Linda High School, and at the upper end of Montecillo Road. Both are owned by the Freitas family. Rodota said there is a possibility the Freitases might donate part of the acreage to the city, but discussions are still in a preliminary stage.

Expansion of the Chula Vista Assessment District to include additional lands, mostly owned by R. E. Nolan, went through its public hearing without a protest—in contrast to earlier hearings on the district, which is to provide sewers and street improvements.

The council then voted to award the contracts to get the assessment district work under way.

Man Freed On Drug Charges

Charles Lewis Gardner, 31, of Fairfax, one of two men picked up at Juanita's Galley Sunday on suspicion of narcotics possession, was freed yesterday for lack of evidence.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Charles L. Convis explained to Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court that no complaint was filed because evidence is insufficient.

The other man, Glenn Cliffe Bainum, 29, of 883 Fourth Street, San Rafael, was still held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $250 bail. Bainum was scheduled to appear this afternoon to face a misdemeanor charge of narcotics possession.

Sheriff's deputies found several hundred pills and capsules, hypodermic needle and syringe, and dozens of "arty" pictures in Bainum's car, parked outside Juanita's Galley.

New Marin City Church Approved

Establishment of a new church in Marin City was approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The church is "physically" but not "legally" a part of Marin City, said staff planner Edmund Kagi, in pointing out that the proposed building at Eureka Street and Pacheco Street was not subject to negotiation with the Marin City Housing Authority.

Gospel Fellowship Inc. proposes to establish the church on the half-acre site. Kagi said there are four church sites in the Marin City master plan, but the additional site would not be detrimental to the area.

The San Rafael City Council Also:

1. Awarded Ruthern Co. of Richmond the contract for three dozen iron gratings for culvert inlets on a bid of $2,421.12, lowest of six. The Ruthern bid was little more than half of the $4,343 asked by San Francisco Welding and Steel Fabricating Co., the high bidder.

2. Overrode the planning commission to grant Gunther Hagel a use permit and architectural approval for a second story on his office building and warehouse at 5 F Street. The planning board had balked at the parking arrangements, but the council found they met city ordinance requirements.

3. Left undisturbed the planning commission's denial to Joanne Wing of a permit for a real estate school at 404 First Street. Chief Building Inspector Andrew Thomas explained the building is a residence in a commercial area in Fire Zone 1, and city ordinance forbids its use for other than a dwelling without rebuilding to meet fire zone requirements.

4. Authorized filing of condemnation action to acquire two lots owned by Merz Brothers and K. Kaufman, sought for extension of Bellam Boulevard. City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen said he had been unable to come to terms on price with the owners.

5. Authorized attendance of Deputy Police Chief Joseph Brusatori and Sgt. Louis Foster at the Northern California Juvenile Officers' convention in Sacramento, tomorrow through Saturday.

6. Received another protest from Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bjorn of 47 Curtis Avenue about parking in the cul de sac where they live; but after hearing Albert Kelly of 44 Curtis Avenue discount seriousness of the problem, decided to take no action.

7. Approved hiring Dave Jones as police patrolman at $500 per month.

8. Granted Jerome Parke, assistant civil engineer in the public works department, leave without pay for up to three months. Public Works Director Norris Rawles said Parke must go to the state of Washington to settle an estate.

9. Put over for two weeks action on Thomas's request for an additional building inspector, who would be the sixth in the city building department. City Manager Andersen said he would like to study figures on building permits before making a recommendation.

10. Received a plaque from the California Commission of Peace Officers Standards and Training in recognition of "adherence to minimum standards for selection and training" of police.

11. Adjourned until noon today, when it met briefly to certify the list of candidates for the April 8 municipal election. Date for this certification is prescribed by the charter.

Directors of the Greenbrae Property Owners Assn. will hear a discussion of a proposed $850,000 Kentfield School District bond issue at a meeting at 8 p.m. today at the Greenbrae Co. realty office.

Howard C. Harmon, district superintendent, will speak on the need for the bond issue, which is to be voted on by school district residents on April 16.

Directors will take a stand on the issue and announce it to the association members within a week, according to Peter Gottheiner, treasurer and publicity chairman.

APPLES FROM THE PRINTER—Fresh apples move at 200 per minute through a new machine, for which a patent was issued today to a firm headed by Jerome Flax of Ross, which imprints them with the word "Washington." This electrostatic printing machine is at Pacific Fruit and Produce Co. in Yakima, Wash., one of the first produced by the firm under a licensing arrangement.

New Machine Prints Without Any Pressure

ticles instead of wet ink onto the material to be printed. The ink particles are attracted to the object or surface by an electrically charged backing plate. The design or image to be printed forms the other electrode plate in the system.

The ink particles are then fused permanently on the surface by heat or chemical treatment.

The equipment involved is simple and lightweight compared with conventional printing presses. The new process eliminates normal drying time requirements, and makes it possible to print on both sides of paper—or burlap, for that matter—simultaneously.

The key to the broad application possibilities of electrostatic printing lies in the fact that, unlike all conventional processes, no physical contact is necessary between the printing plate and the surface to be printed.

"This means," Flax said, "that we can print on almost any object or surface you can think of. Variations in size and shape or roughness aren't a problem. We can achieve full color reproduction on eggshells or plastic containers, on metal cans or corrugated cardboard."

In addition to conventional printing operations, the firm expects to expand the horizons of printing to wholly new areas.

"Printing drug names and dosages on uncoated pills is a job conventional methods can't handle," Flax said. "This new process can do it safely and economically."

Research and development work is continuing at Stanford Research Institute, at the Electrostatic Printing Corp.'s laboratories, and by licensees of the process.

Flax was formerly in the artist supply business, but now is devoting his entire time to the new invention.

Stanford Research Institute is an independent non-profit research center. The Institute's staff of scientists, engineers and economists undertakes conception and development studies for commercial and government clients.

Husband Sent To Vacaville, Wife Causes Jail Commotion

A Kentfield housewife, angered because her jailed husband had been sent to Vacaville without her knowledge, created such a commotion at the Marin County Jail last night that she landed in the cell herself.

Peggy Janice Kimberly, 23, of 9 Emlin Drive, Kentfield, arrived at the booking desk at 10 p.m. with a jar of instant coffee for her husband, Russell Leonard Kimberly, 24. Kimberly had been sent yesterday afternoon to the state hospital at Vacaville as a narcotic addict.

Jailer Alfred Curry said Mrs. Kimberly flew into a rage because no one had told her that her husband had been sent to Vacaville. She smashed the jar of coffee on the floor and ran out the corridor.

Sheriff's deputies and Matron Evelyn McClure said Mrs. Kimberly screamed and kicked when they tried to subdue her.

She was booked on suspicion of disturbing the peace and resisting arrest, then released on $630 bail, to appear in court tomorrow afternoon.

Mill Valley Park Budget Is Up 25%

The Mill Valley Parks and Recreation Commission last night recommended to city council adoption of a 1963-64 budget of $42,244—a 25 per cent hike over the current budget.

Commissioners also asked that the park and recreation tax be raised from 19 cents per $100 assessed valuation to 32.6 cents.

Included would be a five cent tax to be used as a reserve for a city teen-age center, 3.55 cents for other capital outlay, 2.1 cents for increased salaries, and 2.5 cents for a summer youth employment program.

Commissioners, according to George Blackwell, city council liaison, indicated a need for $10,000 from the five-cent tax for the center, $5,280 for the proposed youth summer program, and $6,250 for recreation department needs. Under capital improvements, they seek money for repaving the handball court, replacing a truck, and improvements to the Optimist club baseball field.

The commission also agreed increased fees on the Municipal Golf Course as follows: The annual fee should be upped from $70 to $80, ladies' day fees from 75 cents to $1, monthly adult fee from $7.50 to $10, juniors week day fee from $1 to $1.25, adult week day fee from $1.25 to $1.50 and adult week end fees from $2 to $2.50. The commission spoke of charging more for out of city players but took no action.

Thec ommission also agreed to permit the Homestead Valley Improvement Club use the golf clubhouse at the in-city rate. The Homestead Club's hall was destroyed by fire last week.

It was recommended to the city council that City Engineer Stanley M. Bala be authorized to survey the Three Wells Park to determine whether the Kott Bridge is on park land.

Commissioners recommended to council against changing ownership of the Cascade Dam property from the city to state park use, and went on record endorsing the proposed transfer of 161 acres of Marin Municipal Water District land and a portion of Maurice Capps' property to Mount Tamalpais State Park.

Commissioners opposed, Blackwell reported, use of the "pink houses" at East Blythedale Avenue and Camino Alto "in any circumstances anywhere in the city." Twenty-four teen-agers have signed a petition asking for permission to move the unwanted buildings to Project 17 for a teen center, using $470 in funds which the teen-agers earned by selling Christmas trees last December.

Business, Finance Talking Of Taxes

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Business and finance is now having its day in the tax talkathon. Its ideas are short on popular appeal perhaps but long on conviction. And the proposals go further than the president's in some directions.

If asked to name typical spokesmen for business and finance, most Americans doubtless would say the National Assn. of Manufacturers and the American Bankers Assn.

And these two are advising Congress how the federal tax structure should be changed.

ABA Executive Vice President Dr. Charles E. Walker today is urging the House and Means Committee to consider a "cut in corporate income taxes, preferably to as low as 42 per cent, but at least to 45 per cent."

He believes that over the long run "the resultant upsurge in corporate investment activity, with its consequent rise in income and profits, would generate sufficient Treasury revenues to more than offset the tax cut itself.

The president has proposed a cut over two years of the present 52 per cent rate to 47 per cent. Labor spokesmen have insisted that even this cut needn't be considered at this time, arguing the big thing is to get more spending money into the pockets of lower income citizens.

Dr. Walker holds, on the contrary, that "dollar for dollar, the major and most lasting contribution to growth stemming from tax-rate reform lies in the area of the corporate income tax."

"The corporate tax is not an impersonal tax: It falls upon people—the people who work for the corporation, in the form of fewer jobs; the people who own the corporation, in the form of lower dividends; and the people as a whole in the form of a sluggish rate of job-producing investment and a relatively low rate of growth."

The bankers' spokesmen also assails "these proposals advanced by the President which would remove two million people from the tax rolls." Dr. Walker thinks even the lowest income brackets should be reminded by a withholding tax on paychecks that government services cost money.

The president of NAM, W. P. Gullander, also urged the committee to cut the corporate tax to 42 per cent —and thought that figure should be the top rate for individual income levies, too.

The NAM view was that the administration tax proposals were aimed at short-term stimulation of the economy, while the real need was long-range economic growth. Gullander said the goal should be to "create jobs for the unemployed and for new workers instead of primarily increasing consumption by those now employed."

The issue here is joined: Labor spokesmen urge quick cuts, mainly in the lower brackets, to get more consumor spending by those paying income taxes. The NAM and the ABA think the cuts should be for corporations, to increase incentives to expand and make jobs and for higher income brackets, to free funds that could be used for more investment.

Each thinks its idea is the one that would really get the economy growing and spread prosperity to more persons. The President's proposals lie somewhere between these extremes. And Congress may well come up with an idea that differs from all three.

293 Rabies Cases In State Last Year

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A total of 293 instances of animal rabies were reported in California in 1962, according to the State Department of Public Health, compared to 302 reported cases in 1961.

Of the rabies cases recorded, 189 involved skunks. Ninety-nine of the cases were in five counties—Contra Costa, Napa, Sacramento, San Joaquin and Sonoma. The remaining 90 were in 28 other counties.

Kentfield School Pay Hikes Voted

Pay raises for the Kentfield School District's 55 teachers and 14 non-teaching employees, effective next year, were voted by district trustees last night.

Teaching pay will range from a minimum of $5,000 a year for a beginning teacher to $9,400 for those with 13 years experience and at least 60 college credits beyond a bachelor's degree. Salaries now range from $4,900 to $9,350.

Teachers had asked for a 3 per cent raise "across the board."

Pay of clerks secretaries and maintenance personnel was raised an average of 3 per cent.

Supt. Howard C. Harmon said the hike for teachers plus their step increases next year will give teachers now on the payroll an average raise of about 5 per cent.

Mrs. Ethel Porteous of 40 Pacheco Avenue, Fairfax, native of San Rafael and longtime teacher in the Fairfax School District, died at a local hospital yesterday after a brief illness. She was 65.

She retired from teaching in 1955 after 38 years in the Fairfax district. She had taught at Central and Deer Park Schools and at a school that once stood near the present site of St. Rita's Church. At the time of her retirement she was teaching first grade at Manor School.

She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gistav Kohlhoff, early residents of Marin County.

She was a member of Golden Star Rebekah Lodge 112 of San Rafael, the Marin Retired Teachers Assn. and the Women's Assn. of the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo.

She is survived by her husband, Edward J. Porteous, a native of Fairfax. Porteous Avenue was named after his family. He is a retired railroad engineer.

Funeral services will be at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Entombment will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael. Memorial contributions to the Heart Fund are preferred.

The father and grandfather are developers of Bel-Marin Key.

The boy, who was born in Covina (Los Angeles County), was the oldest of three children. The Wests have a daughter Sharlyn, 2, and a son Derik R. West, who is one week old.

The Wests have lived in Marin County for two years.

Other survivors are the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. West of Novato and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Remmele of Santa Rosa.

Funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Friday at the Latter-Day Saints chapel in Novato, with burial in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery directed by Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

T. L. HOERTKORN

Thomas Louis Hoertkorn, once a San Francisco police hero and a wartime chief of police in Sausalito, died yesterday in San Francisco.

Hoertkorn served as Sausalito chief for about two years during World War II, when the city expanded rapidly with development of Marinship, preceding James Doyle in the job.

He served from 1909 to 1936 on the San Francisco police force, rising to captain and being twice cited for bravery. His career there ended when he refused to testify before the grand jury during the Atherton probe of the San Francisco Police Department in 1936.

Subsequently he served in the Coast Guard Reserve, and headed the guard forces of a steamship company and an East Bay industrial plant.

He is survived by his widow, Emma of San Francisco; sons Harold T. and Walter R. Hoertkorn, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at 11 a.m. tomorrow at Carew and English chapel in San Francisco.

State Hears Aged Aid Dilemma

would have to charge $389.75 monthly if it could take chronic patient, but it could accept such patient only in "dire emergency" because of lack of room.

"Totally unrealistic" was the description given the state's payment program by Mrs. Marion Ibach, secretary of the Marin Hospital District board.

Waight was given the courtesy of first speech at a special meeting of county supervisors at the Civic Center. He made heavy weather of his task of explaining why the state had lowered the boom on Marin County in the matter of caring for the aged indigent, through pinching down payments on a program supposed to help.

"I am sure that samples of nursing home costs as taken here were not good, or average for this county," Waight conceded. "Statewide, however, the figures were reasonably good . . . There will be more study. We intend to revise from time to time. I can't promise anything, but we're doing our best."

None of those speaking for Marin County found this anything like good enough.

Three proprietors of nursing homes were bitter in condemning the new payments.

Pointing out that the recently promised "supplements" up to $48 and based on wages and capital investment of the homes actually could be expected to yield only $18 here, William Slocum of Larkspur Convalescent Hospital said:

"We'd be spending 65 per cent of our gross for payroll whereas if as much as 38 to 45 per cent of income goes to payroll, a home is in trouble."

James E. Moore of Center Medical Hospital, San Rafael, termed the state-offered rates "totally unacceptable." He said lowering standards would be the only way to meet them —which won't be done, he vowed Moore said he is now "trying to move out MAA patients and get others."

Mrs. Ibach said that last year she traveled 8,000 miles through the state and found that where low hospital rates prevailed it was necessary to levy maintenance or operating taxes. She said a present $389.75 - per-patient-per-month figure is "a bare minimum."

County Auditor Michael Mitchell backed Mrs. Ibach as presenting "a realistic rate" not including taxes, profit and depreciation faced by private homes.

After staying mostly in the background, Welfare Director Betty L. Presley did some plain speaking at the conclusion, to such good effect that Waight assured her it would not be necessary for her to do more than provide a tape recording for tomorrow's hearing on the subject in Sacramento.

She analyzed the supply of beds and said the county is not only short of accommodations anyway, but nursing homes are shunning MAA because of the poor prospects from May 1 when current "frozen" rates give way to the $219 figure. The only apparent solution, she said, is to put patients in hospitals at higher than nursing home costs.

"It makes me sick," she said, "to see an impasse develop where it looks as though we must go to some form of care more expensive both to this county and the federal and state government.

"I feel it will be very short-sighted if the Department of Finance boxes us in to where we must go to a higher level of care, for we can't go to a lower."

Miss Presley appeared this morning before county supervisors with a lengthy letter she proposed to send to Sacramento for tomorrow's meeting, which so impressed the supervisors they decided she should present it in person after all.

I-J Offers Plan On City Hall Problem

buy the city hall for a parking lot, to double-deck another lot. "We could kill two birds with one stone," he said.

"That looks good to me," declared Councilman L. H. Bud Baar.

Mayor John F. McInnis described the proposal as "most interesting."

"We are interested in moving as fast as we can, and are willing to enter into a purchase agreement," said Brown.

"We're interested in the City of San Rafael and its growth. . . The merchants of San Rafael have been good to us. If we can help them with their parking situation, we'd be glad to do so. . . And we'd be happy to help the city council with its financing."

The council found itself in a three-way bind on the city hall situation:

1. Public works, building and planning departments, now in E Street School, must move out.

2. More off-street parking is sought by downtown merchants before opening early next year of the Northgate Shopping Center. Jackson D. Faustman, parking consultant, has recommended the city hall site be given No. 1 priority for additional parking development.

3. Completion of a new city hall on property being acquired on Fifth Avenue running west from C Street is still 18 months to two years away.

Problems of financing are tied in. The council authorized two contracts for $2,500 each with Stone and Youngberg, financial consultants, to plan financing of parking facilities and city hall.

As to the E Street School, it developed that the city departments are in a portion of the building to which the city has already acquired title for extension of Third Street. But that extension is planned for the next fiscal year, so the city must evict its own departments from the school although the San Rafael Elementary School District no longer can do so.

City Mgr. Dan E. Andersen had reported a survey of possible temporary locations for all city offices had shown the second floor of a Montecito Shopping Center building which houses Goodman's Building Supply and other stores would provide the most adequate and economical quarters. The three departments leaving the E Street School might, however, be housed cheaper elsewhere.

Mayor McInnis said he did "not see a lot of sense" in tearing down the city hall to make way for parking and then paying rent for other quarters. He then mentioned a letter from Brown outlining the I-J offer.

"As far as we're concerned, the city hall could stay here" until the new hall is completed, Brown said.

The council also went over the proposed contract with a group of architects for designing the new city hall, and directed Andersen to make several changes and discuss them with the architects.

'Homemaker' Gets Honorable Mention

Susan Beare, senior at San Rafael High School, has won honorable mention in the state semi-finals of a national homemaking contest sponsored by General Mills.

Miss Beare, who with seven other girls in California received the honorable mention, took a homemaking knowledge and attitude test to win the honor. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William K. Beare, 17 Moncada Way, San Rafael.

Ice Cream Stand Owner Victimized

Kenneth Klanecky, proprietor of a San Rafael ice cream stand next door to a Fourth Street bakery where a window was smashed by vandals Saturday night, said yesterday that he also has been a victim of such damage.

"They aren't necessarily our patrons," said Klanecky, who operates Foster Freeze next to the Lady Baltimore Bakery. Even so, he said he is paying for the replacement of the plate glass window which was broken with a beer bottle.

The problem, said Klanecky, is the "hangers-on" who loiter in his parking lot.

San Rafael police have a standing order to remove any cars which are left unattended for 35 minutes or more, Klanecky said.

In view of Saturday's incident, Klanecky said he is inaugurating a new policy: as soon as young customers have finished their food and beverages, out they go: no sitting around in their parked cars.

Sausalito Hearing Set

The Sausalito City Council will hold a public hearing at its meeting at 8 p.m. today on proposed extension of the interim use permit ordinance for a six-month period.

The demand for all types of engineers is reflected in a study showing the number of jobholders in this field nationally jumped 64 per cent—from 519,000 to 853,700 — in the 1950s.

Corte Madera Drainage Proposal 'Unfair'

Corte Madera's proposed grading and drainage ordinance last night aroused strong protest from owners of low land east of Highway 101 who feel they are being required to provide ponding area for a large part of town.

The Corte Madera Town Council, at request of the objecting owners and the Engineering and Grading Contractors' Assn., continued its "courtesy" public hearing on the ordinance for two weeks. Dennis Warner, North Bay representative of the contracting association, said members wanted to study the ordinance further.

Objections over ponding requirements came from Vernon Humber, representing owners of about 100 acres between Highway 101 and the railroad tracks.

Humber said the ordinance, which is based on the 1955 Hutchinson - Hayes report, "treats us very unfairly" in that it would require awners to provide more than theone-twentieth of land area for ponding required of the rest of the town. He said the town's park area west of the highway is exempted from the ponding requirement.

Town mgr. Arthur H. Brandow said Humber was right, but the extra ponding required for the lowlands is necessary to make the plan workable.

"Any less than this would create flooding," Brandow said. He also said that although the town's park is exempted, ponding areas are being provided.

An alternative to the extra ponding, which Humber said would take 12 and one-half acres of his group's land, would be to build a pumping plant "as big as this room," Brandow said. This, he added, would be more expensive than buying the extra land from the Humber group.

He said the ordinance might be modified so the town could assist in ponding for the Humber area but lands to the east of the railroad tracks should provide its own ponding requirement.

The council held over until its next meeting a revised grading and drainage plan for the Bramante property, part of the Humber group, since it ties in with the proposed ordinance.

Brandow said the plan had been revised, deleting drainage pond areas, "to force a decision" on ponding requirements. He recommended disapproval of it.

By BRUCE COLEMAN

This week marks the first anniversary of ferry boat service between Tiburon and San Francisco.

The birthday is being celebrated quiety by Harbor Tug and Barge Co., which runs the ferries, but two "old faithful" commuters are loud in their praise of the event. They are H. G. (Samm) Coombs of Belvedere and David D. Ring of Tiburon.

"It's so good that I'm continually nervous that it can't last," says Coombs. "You're cruising across the bay with a cup of coffee in one hand and a doughnut in the other and look up at Waldo and see all the cars backed up and you cross yourself.

"There's a sea lion that has been saying 'good morning' to us lately as he sits on a buoy close to Alcatraz. He nods as we go by like a traffic cop.

"There's always an element of adventure," added Coombs, who is an advertising agency creative director. For example, passengers on the big Pacific and Orient liners are to be waved at, commuters watch the children leaving Alcatraz by boat to go to school in San Francisco. And once, someone put a wrench by the compass on the ferry boat and the boat ended up at Lime Point.

Ring, an attorney, who has "been riding from the day they began, claims it is a relaxing way to go to work and provides him with opportunity to read or talk to friends.

"My basic feeling is I sincerely hope they are making money so they won't stop. It's a tremendous addition to the pleasure of living in the Bay Area," declared Ring.

There were 65 passengers riding the Harbor Tug ferries when service began under the charter of the Belvedere-Tiburon Ferryboat Club last year in mid-March. There are now 75 per day, according to general manager Lester Bedient of Harbor Tug and Barge Co. Asked what the future may hold, Bedient replied "more patronage is needed."

The ferry boats make two trips daily, Monday through Friday, leaving Tiburon at 7:05 and 7:40 a.m. and the ferry building in San Francisco at 5:15 and 5:45 p.m. Still very much part of the service are coffee and doughnuts in the morning and an open bar in the evening.

Youth Rips Into Fence With Car

Sherman I. Mason, 20-year-old carpenter's helper from Ukiah, swerved his car on Novato's Atherton Avenue just before last midnight and took out 50 feet of barbed wire fence.

Two passengers, Linda Hampton, 15, of Ukiah and Melvin Snow, 20, of Vallejo were treated for minor cuts at Novato General Hospital.

Mason told the California Highway Patrol he thought he saw something coming at him from the right at 11:45 p.m. as he drove west three-tenths of a mile from the Black Point Cut-off. His vehicle plunged through a fence and wound up in two feet of water in a drainage ditch.

Mrs. Corinne Black of San Francisco suffered minor injuries, for which she refused hospitalization, in an accident outside Sabella's, Mill Valley, yesterday afternoon.

Her husband, James R. Black, construction superintendent for the City and County of San Francisco, backed out from the parking space in front of the restaurant and his car was struck by one driven by Max Horowitz, 16 Bay Vista Drive, Mill Valley, passing on the frontage road from his nearby Colonel's Ranch Wagon, the highway patrol reported.

Horowitz said no warning was given. Black was cited on a charge of unsafe backing.

Grading Job Nicks Town's Property

The Corte Madera Council last night asked Town Atty. Sherrod S. Davis to find whether a road built by George Roemer and Jack Estes in Madera Park tract is an unauthorized use of town property.

The council sidestepped a dispute over whether the developers had been given verbal permission by town employees for the road at the top of Buena Vista Avenue.

Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow said the road was bulldozed across a strip of land which the town bought in a tax sale. The land is a recorded but undedicated street in an old subdivision, he said.

Estes said he had asked the assistant engineer for a permit to do the grading, and had submitted a plan, but had been told no permit was needed.

Brandow said he had talked to building inspector William G. McBride and assistant engineer Richard McCready and they denied they had given consent for the grading. He recommended that the town cut a ditch across the roadway to make it impassable until the matter is settled. The council, however, declined to do this.

Attorney Davis said he could not give an opinion without examining all documents in the case. Estes said he had been told by title company attorneys that the so-called town property was an undedicated right-of-way which had been offered and rejected and acquired by the town "in a rather dubious way."

Estes promised he would halt further work on the roadway for two weeks.

Additions For Schools Approved

Plans for a six-classroom addition to San Jose Intermediate School and a six-classroom and library addition to Loma Verde Elementary School were approved last night by San Jose School District trustees.

James Coke of the architectural firm of Rockwell and Banwell presented the plans.

The trustees approved a school calendar of 177 days for the 1963-64 school year. There will be a seven-day teacher workshop before school starts on Sept. 9. There is also a 24-day summer school July 1 through Aug. 2.

Supt. Ralph Giovanniello reported the district still needs to rent additional classroom space for the balance of the year. He told the board that he is still trying to rent a room in the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church on South Novato Boulevard for a classroom.

An audit by the firm of Dalton, Graupner and Barber of San Rafael, to cost $635, was approved by the board.

The board called a special executive meeting for 8 p.m. March 25 to discuss rehiring of teachers who do not have tenure status.

ROSS REFUSES RESIGNATION OF TEACHER

When Mrs. Alice Bello, second grade teacher, submitted a letter of resignation at the board meeting last night, trustees refused to accept it. They want Mrs. Bello to reconsider her retirement plans. After all, she has only been with the district 38 years.

Supt. Donald D. Leister said trustees put off any action on the resignation, to be effective in June, until their next meeting April 1.

Ross School Trustees Going Ahead With Suit

Trustees of Ross School District last night authorized payment of a $1,000 contract, despite advice from the county counsel's office to the contrary.

Asst. County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney advised the district that payment on a suit testing state unification laws may be ruled illegal by Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk.

The Ross district had joined 40 other small districts in the state in hiring the legal firm of Barnett and Robertson, San Francisco, to test the legality of the State Education Code aimed at forcing school district unification.

"The board has a contract," Supt. Donald D. Leister said, "and believes it should carry out its part of it."

The $1,000 payment was the first installment of the district's $3,000 share of the cost.

In other business, trustees learned that an eight-week course in life sciences had just been concluded in Saturday classes for 43 pupils. A course in physical science will be offered during the coming eight weeks, Leister said.

Trustees considered a school calendar for next year with classes opening Sept. 12 and closing June 11. The board will take action on this at its next meeting April 1.

Trustees accepted with regret the resignation of Miss Sharon Aisthrop, fifth grade teacher for two years, who will return to college after the close of school in June.

Ridge Way Path Work Delayed

Christmas Tree Hill residents in Corte Madera will have to wait awhile for improvement of Ridge Way, 56-year-old path which the town has taken over for maintenance.

Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow said today he had received complaints from residents because a patio and fence which block the path have not been removed. He said improvement of the path "is on work order" but there is other street work that must be done first.

Mrs. Ralph E. White of 236 Morningside Drive complained that her 8-year-old son fell down the steep hillside a few days ago because of the obstructions in the walkway.

Folsom Warden Says Muslim May Sue Him

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Folsom Prison Warden Robert A. Heinze said today he may be sued by a Muslim prisoner whose jaw was broken by a prison correctional officer.

"The suit hasn't been filed yet," Heinze said, "but I understand it's all typed and ready to go. I think it involves about $300,000."

Heinze said he understands the suit names, besides himself, the officer, Lt. Albert Valley; Director of Corrections Walter Dunbar, and Youth and Adult Corrections Agency Administrator Richard A. McGee.

Lewis' jaw was broken March 4 when, Heinze said, he refused to return to his maximum security quarters after a trip to an x-ray machine, and began swinging at the guards.

Council Wants Town Labor To Care For Municipal Turf

Four bids for a contract to maintain Corte Madera's town park turf were rejected last night by the town council in favor of maintenance by town personnel.

Mayor Edward J. Colthurst, however, opposed the town maintenance plan offered by Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow because he felt it could lead to requests later for more workers on the public payroll, or possibly neglect of other work.

Bids on the project, based on a six-month maintenance period, ranged from $429 per month by Forester and Creger of Corte Madera (already doing the work under sub-contract), to $1,000 a month by F. L. Anderson of Sausalito.

Brandow estimated it would cast $229 per month, using two man-days of work per week, for town forces to maintain the turf. His estimate was based on year-around care.

Councilman Charles F. Pendelton said there was "too big a disparity" between Brandow's estimate and the lowest contract bid, but in the end he made the motion to do the work with town labor. Colthurst told Brandow he wanted an accurate six-month accounting of the cost "right to the dollar."

After approving Pendleton's motion, the council authorized Brandow to buy a power mower, which he estimated would cost not more than $1,350.

The council agreed to take up at a future meeting a proposed ordinance giving it jurisdiction over addition of land uses under the zoning ordinance.

Town Atty. Sherrod S. Davis said previous action by the council, authorizing real estate, employment and insurance offices in the commercial service district on the east side of the freeway, was illegal. He said this function is reserved to the planning commission.

Donald O'Neil, to whom the uses were granted, was told he would have to go through the regular amendment procedure to have the uses legalized.

Assessment For Sewers May Go Up 16 Per Cent

Hawthorne Terrace property owners within a new sewer assessment district may face a 16 per cent increase in their assessments, Samuel A. Fletcher, secretary of the Richardson Bay Sanitary District, said today.

The reason, he explained, is that bids received for construction of the project are $27,000 and more above engineer J. Warren Nute's estimate of $145,000. Low bid for sewers opened last night was $85,212 by C. and G. Construction Co. of Hayward, and low bid for the pumping station and additions to existing facilities was $87,100 by V. Maggioria and Sons of Sausalito. These figures total $172,312.

The hearing was continued to 8 p.m. April 9 at the Trestle Glen Treatment Plant, Fletcher said, to give notice to property owners. There were nine bidders on both segments of the contract, Fletcher said.

Charged With Beating Children

A battery charge was filed yesterday against Edward Ames of 423 Cascade Drive, Fairfax, accused of beating his children and choking his estranged wife Sunday night.

Mrs. Betty Mae Ames of 1284 Yukon Way, Novato, signed the complaint against her husband. She complained that Ames threw the children to the floor and then began choking her, until her mother came to her aid with a metal stool.

Ames is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court Friday afternoon.

The Corte Madera Town Council Also:

1. Will meet Thursday for its first work session with the planning commission and the planning firm of Livingston and Blayney on the proposed new town general plan. Copies of the plan draft were distributed by Brandow.
2. Approved an ordinance prohibiting parking on portions of the north and east side of Casa Buena Drive.
3. Designated the superintendent of public works as the street superintendent to conform with state codes on sidewalk improvement proceedings, and set a hearing on the July 1 meeting for sidewalk improvements throughout the town.
4. Appointed Fred Nicholson of 454 Chapman Drive to a vacancy on the Larkspur-Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission created by resignation of Roy Davis.
5. On Brandow's recomendation, filed a request by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney F. Thomas for abandonment of a portion of old Paradise Drive until the town is ready for development of the street.
6. Ordered abatement proceedings against Ralph Tobener to force removal of old form lumber and a cleanup of his property at Lakeside Drive and Cheyenne Way.
7. Directed a letter be sent to William Murray, owner of property on Casa Buena Drive, requesting that abandoned buildings be removed.
8. Received a report from the planning commission that ordinance amendment to permit banners across streets will be sought.

Sedan Is Stolen

Michael George Ruhlman reported today to San Rafael police that his tan 1954 Chevrolet sedan was stolen during the night from a parking stall at the rear of the apartment building where he lives at 320 Third Street.

Wheels Stolen

Fred W. Dunn, a visitor from Medford, Ore., reported to sheriff's deputies yesterday that someone removed both front wheels from his 1960 sedan the previous night while he was staying with friends on Mount Tamalpais.

Novato Parks Talk

Only three members of the seven-member Novato City Parks and Recreation Commission—not a quorum—showed up for last night's meetings, so no action was taken. The three discussed the budget, using the Northwestern Pacific Railroad Depot for a museum, and plans for making Novato "the gateway to the Point Reyes national seashore."

Child Eats Lye

Martha Howe, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Minnie Howe of 7060 Redwood Highway, Novato, accidentally ate an undetermined quantity of a lye product yesterday, according to Novato police. She was taken to Novato Hospital where she was reported in good condition today.

SQUIRREL POACHER

The Fresno courthouse park has run out of squirrels, and freshman Democratic Assemblyman George Zenovich (above) would like to trap a boy and girl squirrel in Sacramento's Capitol Park and sneak them to his hometown. Assembiyman Frank Belotti (R-Eureka), who got wind of the plan, is reluctant to see any of the Capitol's squirrels taken away. He feels they might be mistreated elsewhere. However, yesterday tensions eased when Belotti was told the squirrel population number about 500. He said a few could be spared if Fresno people will "treat them well." (AP Wirephoto)

Non-Voters Are Taught To Feel Guilty

Social studies teachers in Tamalpais High School District try to imbue students with the idea that "if you stayed home from an election, you'd feel guilty."

Their students find interest in affairs of government all the way from a local police department to the national scene.

So a panel of teachers reported to the district's board of trustees at its meeting last night.

Included in a panel was Freeman Blake, teacher at Redwood High School who last year won a bitterly-fought-for seat on the Fairfax City Council.

"We try to get our classes out of the textbook," he said. "It's a change from the kind of civics we studied. We're trying to teach the value that if you stayed home from an election, you'd feel guilty."

Keith Lester, teacher at Sir Francis Drake High School, declared:

"When the students begin to realize American government can't be put in a box, that it's still an experiment and changing, there's an excitement in them."

Dr. James M. Stubblebine of the school board wondered whether government at the local level is being taught sufficiently.

Teachers described visits to the Marin Municipal Water District, the county courts and San Quentin Prison, which they described as "a shock" to the students.

"I received a fine paper last year on the Sausalito Mosquito Abatement District," said Blake. "This year there's one on the Belvedere Police Department."

(There is no Sausalito Mosquito Abatement District. Marin County has only one such district: the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District. Sausalito is included in its territory.)

"Is it becoming increasingly difficult to discuss 'certain things'?" asked Dr. Delman D. Smith, board chairman.

The panel agreed unanimously that students today were more tolerant than their elders toward hearing a broad spectrum of viewpoints.

"They pick up the slightest touch of hypocrisy in you," Blake said. "To avoid discussing the population explosion, with its religious undertones, would be a hypocrisy they would notice."

Students in the district are required to take world history, United States history and American government, said Duane Miller, district supervisor for socail studies and teacher at Drake, who led the panel. It included Freeman, Lester, Margaret Neubauer of Redwood High School, Donald Inman and Cyril Beattie of Tamalpais High School, and Gerald M. Lucey of Drake.

Pointing out an exercise to make students think, Lester said his students must find out the total cost of advertising in one issue of Life magazine, gering $2,560,000. "Then I ask if the things they read in Life are likely to be things that will irritate the advertisers," he said.

Stubblebine gingerly removed a letter from his binder, which he said "expressed a different approach to social studies than you have." He referred to a recent letter from Maxwell Rafferty, state superintendent of schools, suggesting that school boards do away with "social studies" and teach history, geography and civics as individual subjects.

"I will not embarrass you," he said to the panel, "by asking what you think of this. It is in conflict with your own personal philosophy." He then stuffed the letter into the bottom of his binder.

The Tamalpais High School District board also:

1. Hired Mrs. Theodora Ann Layne, 33 Richmond Road, San Anselmo, to teach physical education for the remainder of the school year at Tamalpais High.

2. Accepted resignations effective in June, of Mrs. Janet L. MacAuley, teacher at Tamalpais High, and John Aweeka, teacher at Drake.

3. Heard a speech by Raymond J. Simpson, former acting superintendent of schools in San Rafael, who is now coordinator for student teachers at San Francisco State College. He introduced several student teachers.

Teachers Tell How Many Students Vote At School

How well does teaching of the responsibility to vote carry over into student body elections in Tamalpais High School District?

Student government advisers at the district's three schools were asked this today, in the wake of a presentation on teaching of social studies at last night's district board meeting.

At Sir Francis Drake High School, said Gerald M. Lucey, student government adviser, from 45 to 70 per cent vote in student body elections. In class elections upperclassmen turn out better than do freshmen.

At Redwood High, the vote turnout was reported as 40 to 60 per cent in student body elections, with more freshmen than seniors voting in class elections.

At Tamalpais High, student government adviser Cyril Beattie said the turnout is nearly 100 per cent. The reason: Voting there is compulsory.

Nominations For Novato Club Presented

Nominations for officers of the Novato Community Club were presented last night by the nominating committee, with election scheduled for April 15.

Nominated were: for president, Alexander Consagra, Donald Leaf and Eric Kollgaard; for vice president, Mrs. Shirley Lane, Robert Patterson and William Hintz; for secretary, Mrs. Roland Brown; for treasurer, Mrs. Raymond Brennan and Robert Young, and for historian, Mrs. Donald Nehasil and Ida Lombardi.

Installation dinner will be held on April 20 at which time tribute will be paid to past members.

Mrs. Raymond Brennan was named producer-director of a melodrama to be presented for Western Weekend.

'UNREADABLE' SIGN FOR CHURCH STAYS

A church may be a church, but a sign indicating a church may not always be so obvious.

This is what Marin County planning commissioners were told yesterday by Principal Planner Sidney Shaw.

The Westminster United Presbyterian Church at 240 Tiburon Boulevard in Tiburon asked for a temporary permit two years ago to put up a sign showing the way to the church, Shaw said.

Now the church has asked permission to retain the sign for another 18 months until state highway construction is completed in the area.

Shaw said the 50-square-foot sign is "oversized and unreadable." "The long name of the church is printed in small letters, and only the cross on the sign gives any hint of what it is all about," he said.

The commission agreed, however, that the sign in any case is "not offensive," and granted another temporary permit.

30-Bed Hospital Near Civic Center Approved

Plans for a new 30-bed convalescent hospital near the Civic Center were approved yesterday by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The two-story building at 24 North San Pablo Avenue in Santa Venetia will be operated by Doreen Nelson of San Rafael. The facade will feature a series of columns and balconies, with a double column at the main entrance.

Architectural supervision was granted by the commission despite what the planning staff called a "complex parking problem." Although sufficient parking space is planned, there is little space for turning and access, and the commission suggested further study in cooperation with the county public works department.

'Too Early' For Specific Role For Marin Planning Council

It is "too early in the game" for the Marin County planning council to take on any specific powers or duties in the study of county-wide planning problems, Marin County planning commissioners were told yesterday.

Commissioner Felix M. Warburg, president of the council, said the organization, comprising representatives of the county and city planning commissions, wanted to know what it could do—if it is to continue to exist at all.

Planning director B. D. Dobbs said there is "definitely a place for the council" but added that it was too soon for the organization to become any sort of "regional planning agency."

Warburg suggested the council might at least hear the recommendations of the county commission as to what major problems need attention.

"Highways, waterfront development and open space planning seem to be problems which are general throughout the county and throughout the Bay Area," he said. "The council seems to think that it could do something if it has a priority list of problems by its next meeting, May 7."

Chairman William Upton said the commission should consider its recommendations to the council at the commission meeting April 1.

The Marin County Planners Also:

1. Approved development plans for Red Hill unit 2 on Lyford Drive in Tiburon. The proposed additions to a previously approved apartment complex would house 76 apartments in three-story buildings.

2. Granted architectural supervision for a five-unit apartment building at 423 Shoreline Highway, Tamalpais Valley, requested by Conrad Weisensee, and for a 44-unit apartment complex to be built by Jack Varney on the shore east of the Main Gate of San Quentin Prison.

3. Authorized changing the name of Elm Avenue in Black Point to Norton Avenue, a name already in use.

4. Heard a letter from the Marin Society for Crippled Children and adults asking for consideration of special ramps and lavatory facilities in future public buildings for the convenience of the handicapped. The commission referred the letter to the board of supervisors.

First Aid In Action Series Saturday

"First Aid in Action," a series of live demonstrations of first aid techniques, will be given at the Red Cross Chapter, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael at noon Saturday.

The public is invited, according to Mrs. Bruce Kirkner, vice chairman of first aid, to watch demonstrations on artificial respiration, handling of fractures and life saving measures.

A 35-foot oak or maple tree having a total leaf surface of about 4,000 square feet will evaporate more than 35 gallons of water in a single summer day.

"...and there's even a knob to help you see and breathe and hear better"

This may sound like science fiction, but it's strictly here today. In our new Monterey. The knob in question works the Breezeway rear window. For a variety of effects.
No blind driving: Lower the Breezeway window a few inches, close side vents and windows and adjust the Flo-Thru ventilation system to allow fresh (warmed) air to enter the car. This helps keep windows from steaming up. Makes driving a lot safer. And more relaxing.
No blue stale air: The clean, dry air that keeps steam from collecting also pushes out (the rear window) that stale blue stuff that hangs inside during winter driving.
No cold, noisy drafts: With the rear window open a few inches, you don't have to open noisy side vents to breathe or see. And if you're worried about rain or snow or sounds coming in that open rear window, don't. It slants inward. Snow, ice or dust find it hard to hold on. The stylish roof-line also provides an elegant eave that shades rear seat passengers. Gives them more headroom, too.
And no extra cost: All the above is standard equipment on our big new Mercury Monterey. And for under $3000* you also get the big 390 V-8, heater-defroster and a lot of other trimmings that are "extra cost" items on lesser cars.

Gasoline Taxes Already Up To Limit; Let's Hold Line

Senator Randolph Collier, the "father" of California's freeway system, has sent us an envelope full of material supporting his Senate Bill No. 344. This proposed law would raise the gasoline tax and raise vehicle registration fees to provide more money for city and county street improvement.

We have supported Senator Collier's proposals right down the line for the past 17 or 18 years while the present system of financing road construction in our state was being formulated.

But we are afraid we cannot endorse his latest move.

He has done us an honor to send us his material. It is most impressive.

He reiterates his view that highway deficiencies ought to be paid for by highway users. This is a view we have always shared with him.

He observes that city and county road deficiencies are far too great at present to be rectified with the present allocation of state gas tax funds for these purposes.

We agree 100 per cent with him on this point.

The material he has sent us shows that his S.B. 344 would provide sizeable sums to the County of Marin and to our 10 incorporated cities, funds which would make it possible to begin to meet local street and highway deficiencies.

This is all most attractive.

But we still cannot endorse it.

We think that gasoline taxes are up to the limit right now. Here in Marin the posted price for regular gasoline is 31.9 cents per gallon, of which 10 cents is tax.

Senator Collier's bill would bring an 11.7 per cent increase on the state portion of the gas tax.

But that's not all; before a city or county could get a share of this new road money, it would have to appropriate one-third in matching funds.

As we say, we are honored that Senator Collier has personally solicited our interest in this matter.

It isn't easy to deviate from 17 or 18 years of down-the-line support for his previous efforts.

Our own Board of Supervisors here in Marin has endorsed S.B. 344. (although several of our cities have declined to endorse it).

But we just cannot escape our conclusion and conviction that gasoline taxes (and vehicle registration taxes, too) are already up to the limit.

The Senator from our own county, Jack McCarthy, said at the start of the session that he, too, thinks gasoline taxes are already high enough and that he would not react favorably to any proposals for raising them.

We find ourselves sharing McCarthy's view. We would be happy if Senator Collier's bill were shelved for awhile.

FLYING FARMERS

Farmers have taken to planes to watch their crops. In fact 7,000 of them belong to an organization called the International Flying Farmers.

These airborne farmers use their planes to manage their extensive properties, which often extend into several states.

Taking to the air helps them to protect crops from frost, to fertilize, spread insecticide and weed killing chemicals and transport equipment.

The Creator has generously provided plenty of good earth and abundant seed and has endowed men with the capabilities to produce sufficient food for every living creature. He expects human beings to display the needed enterprise and effort in completing the job.

Great relief can be brought to the underfed people of the earth by those who are blessed by the many advantages of modern "know-how." Their determined efforts to share their farming skills with those over the earth who barely eke out a living can do much toward bringing about permanent solutions.

"He who has the goods of this world and sees his brother in need and closes his heart to him, how does the love of God abide in him?" (1 John 3:17)

Thanks to You, O generous Father, for providing us with countless opportunities to share Your blessings.

Whatever It Is That Annoys You Probably Can Be Done Without

NEW YORK (AP)—Things we could do without:

Gold identity tags for dogs that have everything. Oldtimers who can remember a worse winter than the one just ending. Lipstick so pale it makes teen-age girls look like zombies.

People who, when you tell them your troubles, just reply, "Well, that's life for you." The commercial spielers on television who whisper their message—for some reason they are more annoying than those who shout. Folks who think it's cute to send a city child a small live bunny for Easter.

Hatcheck girls who drop our hat to the floor when we put down 15 cents because we don't have a quarter in our pocket. Telephones that ring just as we reach the punchline in a joke we're telling the boss.

Hairdos that make a woman look like she'd been frightened out of her wits—or that cause lost bees to confuse it with their home hive. Pigeons that make love outside a window where a middle-aged man is trying to do his work. Office straw bosses who scribble endless suggestions to others just because somebody gave them a stack of free memo pads.

Professional liberals who refer to the unfortunates of this world as "the little people." Bartenders who sprinkle red pepper on their bowl of cheese wafers so you'll buy more drinks to soothe your burning palate. After dinner speakers who speak so long you begin to yearn for breakfast.

ANY MEAL cooked in a backyard between May and November. Wives who can fix with a hairpin a broken vacuum cleaner we've tinkered over for hours with pliers, monkey wrench and crowbar. Drugstore cowboys who wear big-belted military raincoats to make them look more impressively masculine.

MEN'S HATS that have brims so narrow they look as if they'd been gnawed away by hungry mice. Truckdrivers who honk their horns just to see the startled pedestrian jump. Rains that fall only on the days you put on a freshly pressed suit.

From all these, O Lord, deliver us, amen.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

U. S. Should Do All Research

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

In reference to door-to-door solicitations for worthy causes, I agree there must be a better way of doing things.

Actually, a far more economical and efficient method of handling all medical research projects would be to combine and coordinate all efforts under the Veterans Administration or the Dept. of Defense, where the finest facilities already exist.

In the case of cancer research, for instance, all key persons engaged in seeking the cause and cure would be within the same building or complex of buildings and would meet at regular intervals to exchange significant information. This concentration of brain power and facilities would certainly be less expensive and progress would be speedier.

It makes a lot more sense to me that the Government should take over this function than many it has already assumed.

County Personnel System Archaic

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

This is a county of above average citizens, not only in the matter of income (on a nation-wide basis) but also in education, intelligence and achievements.

Yet these same high level citizens allow an archaic, old fashioned, behind-the-times, county personnel program to exist. Some of this is due to apathy, disinterest and sheer laziness (they are interested, but as to doing something about it, well they are too busy.)

In other counties in the State the personnel department is entirely separate from the office of the administrator. The personnel department is headed by a professional personnel officer who answers directly to the Supervisors. The County Administrator has no control over this department, which is proper.

Take the time to read the 1962 Grand Jury report on the personnel department of this county (you can see this bound report in the office of the County Clerk). Then sit down and write or telephone your Supervisor and give him your thinking on this problem. Remember, the standards and integrity of public service are only as high as the public demands.

Vital Decision Railroaded

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

As Inverness property owners we wish to express our total disapproval of the Marin supervisors action March 5 in re-zoning to commercial use a residential property on the Inverness waterfront. This irresponsible action, carried through high-handedly and without regard for the existing master plan, sets a precedent which may jeopardize the beauty of the entire waterfront through commercial development.

The fact that there was no element of hardship to the petitioner involved in this action makes it doubly hard to understand.

We are particularly indignant at the deceptive maneuvering of the timing of the matter, so that the many people who had planned to protest were not at last Tuesday's March 5, meeting. It had been understood that action was to be continued until the return of Supervisor Behr, co-sponsor of the West Marin Master Plan.

We feel that the conduct of Supervisors Ludy, Fusselman and Gnoss in railroading through so vital a decision is unworthy of the dignity of their office.

Construction of a new county road giving Bolinas-Stinson Beach residents a direct route to Fairfax was proposed by the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce.

Alliance For Progress Beginning To Succeed; Reds Disillusioned

WASHINGTON. — Latin American Communists are becoming downright disillusioned — and disheartened — by the Alliance for Progress. It isn't failing adequately! For them it is succeeding too well.

While some of its supporters in the U. S., who expected it to perform miracles overnight, are disappointed that the Alliance hasn't gotten off the ground faster, its Communist opponents are finding to their dismay that it has gotten off the ground too well for their comfort.

I am not suggesting that the first year's work of the 10-year Alliance of Progress has alone thrown the Communists on the defensive. It has helped, visibly helped. The Communists are most on the defensive where the Alliance has been most active. Here is some of the evidence:

In most of the Latin American countries, notably in Venezuela and the Dominican Republic, the Communists are abandoning nearly all effort at peaceful persuasion and turning to violence and subversion as the only means of attaining their ends. They can't win converts from people who see even modest progress in the present hope in the future.

The Latin American Communists are continuing to lose their influence in the labor movement where they thought their prospects were best. Today the International Confederation of Free Trade Unions in South America embraces 3,000,000 workers; the Red-dominated labor organization, not over 1,000,000.

Through Alliance aid 37 U. S. universities are now working with 57 Latin institutions in 18 countries to improve education. There is already evidence of a trend away from long-time Communist control of the universities in Central America.

WHEN I WAS on a reporting trip through South America last summer, it was clear that unless the Alliance for Progress could help bring about a modest, hopeful rate of economic growth plus social reform, the prospects for stability and democracy in the hemisphere were dim indeed. At that time there was not enough evidence to know whether it would do the job.

All the ravages of a long outdated economic system cannot be repaired in 12 months or 12 years, but the evidence is now sufficient to report that the Alliance is making a sturdy and steady beginning—and can succeed.

Here are some of the things which are right with the Alliance for Progress and which show that, after an understandably slow beginning, more can be expected:

Fourteen Latin American countries have either passed new and tighter tax legislation or improved their tax collections; in seven of these countries the reforms are on a major scale.

The Alliance is pursuing a rational and constructive course on agrarian reform. It it not promoting a casual, ineffective program of just cutting up large estates. It is promoting a modernizing of agriculture. Venezuela has succeeded in resettling nearly 60,000 farm families. Since last spring hundreds of families in the Dominican Republic have been resettled. In Chile, Colombia, Bolivia, and elsewhere, similar programs are getting underway.

When the Alliance extended a little over $50 million of assistance in various forms to the Dominican Republic, that country was on the verge of chaos after the assassination of Trujillo. This aid, together with Dominican funds, made it possible to stabilize the situation and to hold the first free elections there in more than three decades.

The Alliance is enlisting new financing for Latin America from Western Europe and from Japan and is carrying forward a positive campaign to attract more and essential investments by U. S. private business with guarantees against the risk of expropriation, inconvertibility, and war.

I AM NOT relying merely on government figures to justify the report that the Alliance for Progress is beginning to make itself felt, is starting to pay dividends. The latest report on "Latin American Business" from the Chase Manhattan Bank cites economic progress in Colombia, Ecuador, Mexico, Peru, and Venezuela as improving and encouraging. No wishful thinking from that source.

There is no doubt in my mind that the Latin American Communists would breathe a sigh of relief if we would give it up.

Mill Valley Oldtimer Recalls Earliest Days Of The Automobile

THERE IS A MAN with a lively eye and a black cane who lives at the end of Echo Lane in Mill Valley. His name is Hy (for Henry) Koslowsky.

Hy sold some of the first auto lamps to Henry Ford, he says. He started in 1907 working out of St. Louis in the "after market" business selling Buggy Lights. "I worked six days a week when people used to work Saturdays and was paid $1.50 a day," Koslowsky recalled.

Going on 84, Koslowsky tells of the days when all the roads were dirt or gravel. He is founder of the Pacific Automotive Show. Hy tells about the Ford car which sold before the model "T," which was the model "N." "Few people know about it," said he.

After market means replacement. If your buggy lamp fell off or got banged up, you bought a new one from Hy, who actually sold to the wholesaler. In those days, the octogenarian said, you went to the blacksmith if something went wrong with your car. He serviced it.

Hy said there were 2,530 makes of automobiles sold in the United States during the 50 years up to 1950. "Ninety per cent of these names were former buggy manufacturers . . . buggies couldn't compete with Henry Ford when he came out with the model "T" for $400," he related.

Hy had a "Moon" buggy with a top which drew back in summer. He remembers the 15 cent haircut, a shave for a dime and when his mother sent him to the butcher for a 15-cent steak. there was a coffee grinder in the kitchen. Want to go back? we asked. "No, you go ahead on everything. I wouldn't want to go back," he said.

"WE'VE REALLY had it," said Nook Armager, after a fire in an attic in Enchanted Knolls, a coffee pot blowing up on Fairway Drive and Brown's Hall catching fire in the wee hours Thursday. All within 11 hours. Some on-duty firemen got but two hours sleep during the night.

"I'VE CHANGED bean soup and pea soup days," said Ruby Cullinan of Sausalito. It seems police officer John Lunt is off Monday and Tuesdays and never got any bean soup which was the Tuesday soup. Now bean is Thursday.

"WE'LL TRY to knock on every door in town," said Larry Counts, to sell 1,000 tickets to the teen dance April 27 to raise funds for a Mill Valley teen center.

TWO DOGS WERE carried into our office last Friday. One, Poncho, will be 16 years in August. This, on the human age comparable, would mean Poncho will be 112, according to Cliff Peterson. Mrs. Jack Silva said the Chihuahua owes his long life to being "rotten spoiled. He doesn't know he is a dog." His sister, Chickie, checked out at eight years.

Mrs. George Silva was carrying Fifi D'Orsay, a Pekingese, eight years old in May. Fifi, says this Mrs. Silva, loves to lap "cigarette smoke." She said the Silvas gave up smoking three years ago but ever since, whenever the dog comes into a room where someone has smoked, she sticks out her tongue and licks up the smoke." Uncanny, we said.

ONE OF BROWN Hall's babies, "This Must Be The Place" has moved onto the 101 strip to Sabella's. A great show, its non-profit players will undoubtedly never forget how they changed costumes at Brown's tiny room upstairs, then ran back along the outside wall to the stage for last November's show.

Once a grocery, burnt-out Brown's Hall has seen life. Dancers have danced, tumblers tumbled and dogs did tricks on the hardwood floor. It has seen the guns and rifles of the VFW, the carpenters union gavel and good old show biz. May she rise again.

A new patient, signing up for treatment, confided to a psychiatrist, "I'd better tell you before we begin that I suffer from marked suicidal tendencies." "Very interesting," nodded the psychiatrist. "Under the circumstances, I'm sure you won't mind paying me in advance."

School Candidates Stress 'Basics'

By ALTON S. BOCK

A return to "basics" in education was a popular theme among Dixie School District board and San Rafael Board of Education candidates who spoke to Marinwood residents last night.

Nearly 60 people saw and heard three of the four candidates for the April 16 Dixie board election and seven of the eight candidates for the April 8 San Rafael board election. The meeting in the Mary E. Silveira School was sponsored by the Marinwood Home and School Club.

San Rafael board incumbent C. Paul Bettini was not present.

Also absent, on Army reserve duty, was Dixie board candidate John R. Christofferson, Terra Linda civil engineer. A letter from him was read, however, stating that with "the increasing tempo of science, our most important duty is to educate the child in more science and mathematics." Christofferson also wrote that it is "important that the child understand our social system and our heritage as well as the systems and traditions of other countries."

He wrote that he was opposed to any released time for religious instruction. Other Dixie board candidates made no comment about released time.

All agreed with Christofferson that Dixie District's proposed 1.6-million-dollar bond issue should be passed.

Stuart W. Curtis, Marinwood salesman, emphasized the need for "education in fundamental subjects." He said Dixie provided one of the finest elementary programs in the state. He objected to increasing state control.

Earl Koehler, Marinwood insurance salesman, agreed that Dixie is providing an "excellent education" and said he had not encountered "any spirit of rebellion among teachers or parents." He proposed to assure the district continuing emphasis of "good, sound education."

Melvin R. Stidham, Terra Linda attorney, said: "I have concentrated on my profession and have deliberately avoided civic affairs till now, but I am ready to go to work on the school board." He added that "basic subjects" should be a primary concern.

Major proponents of a basic education among San Rafael board candidates were Edythe S. Tait, a former school teacher, and Dr. D. Gwynn Thomson, Marinwood physician.

Mrs. Tait advocated strength in the reading and English literature programs of high schools, "respect for property," and "rewards for better teachers."

Dr. Thomson said he would insist on a "mastery of the fundamentals," and would encourage teaching phonics at the kindergarten level. "We should stop wasting time with remedial classes," he said. He proposed better textbooks to replace existing books which "lack moral or literary value," and called the Winton bill, which would allow elementary boards wide selection of texts, a "step in the right direction."

Carl J .Brown, coach at Sir Francis Drake High School and chairman of the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Commission, said: "There is no one way to teach. You can have several different methods going on at one time in the same school." He said there should be emphasis on improved reading and writing, however, and said schools "cannot remain static—there should be constant reevaluation."

Also stressing reevaluation was Walter J. Doll, Marinwood resident and San Francisco steamship line executive. "Perhaps reevaluation is the most important thing," he said. "We should take a look at what we have done each year." He said his experience as Dixie School board president had given him background for the problems of growth and providing an education in a booming community.

Paul J. Wata, Santa Venetia resident and business education teacher at Tamalpais High School, said a major challenge today is preparation of non-academic students. "There is something wrong," he said, "when we have so many unemployed as a result of poor education."

L. E. Weisenburg Jr., San Rafael contractor, said problems of new construction must be faced, and effort made to purchase land and build schools without wasting money. "Every dollar we needlessly expend is one less dollar to be spent on educational needs," he said.

Frank M. Parker, oil company chemist, said there should be interest in a balanced education for both academic and physical development. "A board member should have no conflicting interests," he said. "He should participate as a member of a team in order to fulfill the objectives of the district."

The candidates met after their brief speeches to have coffee and talk informally with members of the audience.

Rezoning Denied By Hub Planners

A request to rezone property owned by William Pollard at Redhill Avenue and Sequoia Drive from duplex to commercial zoning was denied last night by the San Anselmo Planning Commission.

Three residents who live near the property, which is across the street from United Market, protested the rezoning on grounds it would add to traffic congestion.

The commission agreed to send a letter to the Marin County Planning Commission supporting a proposed plan to rezone an area north of San Anselmo to a lower density residential area.

Woman Home Again After 'Pill Overdose'

Mrs. Karen Merkelbach, 24, of Sausalito was at home today in good condition after having reportedly taken an overdose of sleeping pills at her home, Apt. 24, 2015 Bridgeway, yesterday morning.

Found unconscious in her apartment by Sausalito police at 8:30 a.m. she was first taken to Marin General Hospital where her stomach was pumped, then transferred to Ross Hospital. Police said Mrs. Merkelbach was reportedly despondent over marital troubles.

AWOL Soldier Overturns Car

A San Francisco Presidio private, absent without leave, overturned an automobile one mile south of Hamilton Air Force Base early today, injuring himself and a companion.

Richard J. Britton, 18, living at 31 Magnolia Street, San Anselmo, was driving south at 2 a.m. when his vehicle left Highway 101 on a curve, skidded across the divider and flipped over.

He and his companion, John M. Taylor of 10 Gilbert Street, San Rafael, were treated at San Rafael General Hospital. Britton, with a broken shoulder blade and abrasions, was then transferred to Letterman Army Hospital in San Francisco and was in good condition this morning, but under guard.

Sausalito Schools

Sausalito School District trustees will meet April 1 to discuss the 1963-64 budget. They did not meet last night, as scheduled, because of lack of a quorum.

San Geronimo High School Plan Will Fit Into Slopes Of Valley

Drawings of a new high school that will fit and follow the curves of San Geronimo Valley were shown last night to members of the Tamalpais Union High School District.

The school, planned for a site on the Ottolini ranch now under condemnation proceedings, will fit into the slopes at the eastern end of the valley north of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

"We have made every effort to keep the low, sprawling feeling of the valley," said Ralph B. Priestley of the architectural firm Gromme and Priestley of San Rafael, designers of the school.

"We planned the buldings around a central court that will be sheltered from the wind and give the students a place to gather during their lunch hours," said Priestley. The gymnasium, at one end of the court next to two swimming pools, will have a floor sunk several feet below the court so its high ceiling will still make a low profile.

Four separate blocks of buildings are joined by covered walkways. "The buildings progress from the noisiest activities at one end to the quietest at the other," Priestley said. The progression goes from gymnasium to little theater, music, industrial arts, arts and crafts, business education and academic building.

A creek flowing along one boundary and many groves of oak trees have been preserved. A steep slope banked by trees has been included at the east end of the site.

The plans include a large parking lot between the school and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, which Priestley said could someday be a limited access freeway. Behind the buildings game courts are fitted between groves of oak trees. Priestley said the fill needed to level a pasture for game fields could be taken from the knolls where the buildings will rest.

A search for the site began in 1961. The Ottolini ranch was chosen a year later. The possibility that a bond election might be held in 1964 to build the school was mentioned informally last night.

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Bridge Hand Is Played Like Scene Out Of Western Movie

The generation now growing up may view everything in terms of the old Western movies. All people will be considered either desperadoes, maidens, or Rangers. And the bridge hand of the future will look like today's diagram.

Opening lead — ♣ K

West opens the king of clubs and continues with another club. South ruffs, cashes the ace of trumps and leads a trump to dummy's king.

WHAT SORT?

Now we see what sort of person South is. The bad trump break separates the desperadoes, the maidens and the Rangers.

The desperadoes draw two more rounds of trumps, reducing the hand to no-trump. Now comes a spade to dummy's ace and a diamond finesse, losing to the king.

The defenders thereupon take the rest of their black cards, and South is down three!

MAIDEN MUDDLES

When the bad trump break shows up, she abandons trumps in order to try the diamond finesse early. This is a good move.

A bad move is soon to follow. West wins the first diamond and leads another club, whereupon our maiden ruffs. Now she cannot draw trumps, since she has one trump in each hand and East has two trumps.

EAST RUFFS

Declarer leads diamonds until East ruffs. Now the defenders make a trick in each suit, and South is down one.

The Ranger plays the hand properly, as you might expect from the sort of fellow that wastes his time rescuing maidens from desperadoes. After two rounds of trumps he tries the diamond finesse. When West leads back a club, the Ranger discards a spade instead of ruffing.

Now, West may curl his mustache and snarl fiercely, but he can do no harm. If he leads another club, dummy ruffs; and South can easily draw trumps from his own hand. If West leads anything else, declarer wins, draws trumps and claims the rest.

Today is Tuesday, March 19, the 78th day of the year with 287 to follow in 1963.

The moon is approaching its new phase. The morning star is Venus. The evening star is Mars.

On this day in history:

In 1917, labor scored an important victory as the U.S. Supreme Court ruled constitutional an act that provided for an eight-hour working day on the railroads.

In 1920, the United States rejected the Versailles Treaty which set up the League of Nations.

A thought for the day—French novelist Marcel Proust said: Happiness is beneficial for the body, but it is grief that develops the powers of mind."

He Gave Up Studying Law—And Now Makes Big Splash With His Pools

Now making a respectable splash in Marin construction is Marin Swimming Pools started last year by Myron Staab of Mill Valley. Staab, who originally studied to be a lawyer, got a summer job with Alves Pools, Novato, in 1956, and decided he was more suited to outdoor work than indoor jurisprudence. Eventually he became Alves' construction superintendent. He now contracts for both pools and landscaping, does his own designing and handles both residential and commercial jobs.

ADVERTISING SPECIALIST Henry Shobar of Larkspur notes that March is International Advertising Specialty Month—promoting those giveaway ball point pens, calendars, cigarette lighters, ashtrays and doodads without which no businessman's desk or inside pocket would be complete.

Shoger says the earliest advertising specialty was a picture of King George III for his coronation in 1768 which he distributed to promote good will. But it didn't work too well with American colonists who changed allegiance to another George a few years later.

No doubt he should have attached a calendar to it—as did an enterprising insurance man in New York 80 years later. No one was interested in having his signs posted in taverns and stores—until he affixed calendar pads and started a new trend in wall decorations.

Boy, 7, Starts Fire In Closet

A 7-year-old boy with matches started a closet fire in the bedroom of a Marin City home Saturday afternoon, sheriff's deputies reported.

Victims of the fire were Will and Rosalie Smith of Building C-29, apartment 225. Flames burned clothing and damaged a dresser in the closet before Mr. and Mrs. Smith doused the blaze with water.

Smith told Sheriff's Deputies Mathew Conlin and James Current that he had taken a box of matches away from his 7-year-old son just a few minutes before the fire. The boy told officers it was an accident.

The boy was cited to appear before Sheriff's Juvenile Inspector Harvey E. Teague on Wednesday.

"Problems of Growing Up in a Nuclear Age" and "Party Crashing."

Probation Is Granted Salesman

Chester Lee Domer, 64-year-old Fairfax securities salesman who sold some $80,000 worth of securities without a permit, drew three years probation yesterday.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court also ordered Domer to get a job and make restitution to the county for one-half the cost of prosecuting the case against him and his partner, Harley Jackson McQuain, 45, of San Leandro. The charge against McQuain was dropped after the first trial ended in a hung jury.

The judge said that Domer would have gone to jail had it not been for his clean past record and the fact that he did not personally profit from the securities sales for which he was convicted.

The company whose stocks Domer sold, Electro-Form Manufacturing Co. of Oakland, went bankrupt.

Committee Passes Condominium Bill

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A bill clearing away legal obstacles to the increased construction and sale of condominiums—individually owned apartments—was approved last night by the Senate judiciary committee after prolonged debate.

The bill by Sen. Edwin J. Regan (D-Weaverville) won strong support from housing industry representatives. It was opposed by Sen. Ronald G. Cameron (D-Auburn) who subjected proponents to sharp questioning.

Regan's bill resolves a number of highly technical legal problems and provides that the individually owned apartments will be assessed separately for tax purposes.

The lawmaker termed his legislation a program to assist private builders to meet the state's unprecedent housing requirements. He said its passage would spur the housing industry and aid the general economy.

Advantages accruing to the apartment owner, he said, would include protection against foreclosure from a failure of others to make loan, tax or other required payments.

A sizable audience attended the two-hour nighttime session of Regan's judiciary committee.

Thirsty Thief

A thirsty thief who ignored other items of value took several opened bottles of bourbon, rye and vodka from the cabin of his 31-foot cruiser at Loch Lomond Yacht Harbor, San Rafael, some time within the past two weeks, owner Robert J. Fortney reported to police Saturday.

Commercial candlemaking in the United States was pioneered in 1855 in Syracuse, N. Y. by Anton Will, a German immigrant. The firm he founded now makes candles for the Vatican.

Tidelands Fill As Marin Develops Toward Bay

This is the panorama of Marin County and the Bay that stretches below an Aero Photographers ariborne cameraman looking down from a point above Ross.

Dredged channel of creek and Greenbrae Lagoon, beyond Bon Air Bridge, are edged by lands newly filled for development. Beyond Highway 101, which becomes clearly visible at Greenbrae Undercrossing, are large areas of filled lands, changing the coastline of Corte Madera.

Another filled lagoon area may be seen peeping from behind first hill of Tiburon Peninsula, which stretches off to upper right corner of picture.

In upper left, San Quentin Prison juts into bay near where the crooked ribbon of the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge starts toward the Contra Costa shore. Further new filling may be noted along both sides of creek channel between San Quentin and the highway. Still more is at left of San Quentin Point—and if land farther up shore showed in picture, further filled areas could be seen along San Rafael Canal.

San Rafael Acts To Put Utility Lines Underground

The sight of power poles down the middle of the widened portion of Third Street spurred the San Rafael City Council to action last night on forcing utility firms to put lines underground.

Councilman Fred E. Jensen brought up the matter, pointing to a city charter section which gives the council the power to require underground utility installations.

Public Works Director Norris Rawles submitted a report on a San Francisco city ordinance under which certain mileage of power and telephone lines must be placed underground each year.

Mayor John F. McInnis said that was what was wanted in San Rafael, and told Rawles to have an appropriate ordinance prepared and then to work out a system for gradually putting all utilities underground, one section of the city being done each year.

The Third Street poles, however, which were put in the middle when widening of the street from Union to Embarcadero was started, will stay right there.

Not Canceled, Just Changed

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Delta Sigma Phi fraternity at Arizona State University decided to send pledges and several trucks out for snow so they could build a campus snow man.

Unfortunately, there was no snow anywhere in the state.

The fraternity men changed plans quickly. They bought 1,800 pounds of crushed ice and built an iceman instead.

Detroit 'Underdog' In Bidding For '68 Olympic Games

NEW YORK (AP)—The city of Detroit has won the opening skirmish but may lose the battle in its bid to hold the 1968 Olympic Games.

Reaffirmed by the U.S. Olympic Committee as the American city most qualified to make the pitch, the world's motor capital was not overly optimistic over its chances of selling itself to the International Olympic Committee.

The Detroit delegation, headed by Gov. George Romney of Michigan and Mayor Jerome P. Cavanaugh, was elated when the city was chosen over four others yesterday by the USOC board of directors, but the spearhead of the drive added a sobering note.

"We will be definite underdogs before the IOC next October," said Fred C. Matthaei Sr., chairman of the Detroit Olympic Committee. "It's no secret that the IOC is heavily European flavored. Also, our cause has been hurt by our internal battles—first, the AAU-NCAA power war and then this fight between Los Angeles and Detroit for the site.

"All this will be distributed among the Olympic countries. Our best bet is to turn it around to our advantage, if we can. We must plead that the bloodshed is finished, and we deserve a chance to get our house in order."

The IOC is expected to pick the 1968 Olympic site at its meeting in Nairobi, Kenya, next October. Besides Detroit, cities bidding include Mexico City, Buenos Aires, Vienna, Lausanne and Lyons, France.

One of the European spots is favored to get the nod. However, Detroit intends to put up a fight—the same kind that won it selection over Los Angeles, Philadelphia, San Francisco and Portland, Ore., in the tussle before the 40-man board of directors of the USOC.

"If we are picked, you will see the greatest Olympiad in the history of the games," said Michigan's Gov. Romney. "I feel good about our chances. The whole world has heard the phrase 'FOB-Detroit.'"

Art Lentz, assistant director of the U.S. Olympic Committee, said, "The Olympic structure is undergoing great changes and tradition is not as strong as it once was. I think the United States' chances of getting the Games are much better than they were six months ago."

Detroit, picked last October by the same board but later challenged by Los Angeles, was reaffirmed by an overwhelming vote after each of the five cities spent an hour making presentations at Olympic House.

With 40 board members voting, 32 chose Detroit, 4 voted for Los Angeles, 2 for Portland and 1 each for San Francisco and Philadelphia. A plurality of 21 votes was all that was needed.

Detroit announced plans for a new, three-tier stadium, seating 110,000, to be built on the State Fair Grounds, and for an Olympic Village, accommodating 9,000, at Wayne State College.

The added facilities would be financed by extra proceeds from race track betting revenues and revenue bonds. The stadium would be rented to the Detroit Lions football team and the Detroit Tigers baseball team.

The city also would make use of University of Detroit facilities; the Cobo Arena, on the waterfront; Convention Arena, a $56-million project covering 17 acres under one roof; Olympia Stadium, where the Red Wings play their hockey games, and the 53,000 capacity Tiger Stadium.

Discouraging Search For Fifth Hurler

MESA, Ariz. (UPI)—San Francisco Giant Manager Alvin Dark's search for just one more solid starting pitcher is turning out to be a discouraging one.

A couple of candidates were batted about yesterday as Houston exploded for 20 hits on the way to a 14-5 rout of the Giants, now 5-5 in Cactus League action.

San Francisco faced the Chicago Cubs here today.

Jerry Thomas turned in the most impressive performance for the Giants in yesterday's debacle at Phoenix. He surrendered eight hits and one run over six innings.

Thomas is a big boy from Illinois who has won 33 games in his last two hours in the minors. He might stick with the varsity this time-out.

But Ron Herbel and John Pregenzer, two of the more touted Giant yearlings, just could not get anybody out.

Herbel, who has been getting shelled all spring, was battered for six runs in two innings. The mammoth Pregenzer has looked sharp this spring, but seven runs clattered across the plate in a horrible ninth inning off Pregenzer yesterday.

Six different Houston players rapped two or more hits. The Giants' offence was pretty well confined to Ed Bailey, who slammed two home runs, and Jose Cardenal, who added another one.

SCRUBS WIN

After the defeat, the Giants' "B" team took care of Houston 8-5 in a six-inning battle. Lefty Billy O'Dell pitched for the scrubs, in keeping with Dark's policy of having his best pitchers going for the "B" squad and showcasing his second line pitchers with his best lineup of the "A" squad.

O'Dell's job would have been easier had not ex-Santa Clara star Ernie Fazio ripped a three-run homer off him.

Meanwhile, the Giants' parade of injuries gets longer.

Matty Alou will be lost to the club for two weeks as the result of a freak tumble and consequent knee injury Sunday. X-rays showed no permanent damage, but an external lateral ligament was torn in the knee.

Post Asked To Retract 'Fix' Story

ATLANTA (AP)—The Saturday Evening Post has been asked to retract an article accusing Wallace Butts and Alabama Coach Paul Bryant of collusion to rig the Alabama-Georgia football game last fall.

The move is necessary under Georgia law, to enable a plaintiff to recover punitive damages if a libel suit is filed and won in court.

Both Butts, former athletic director at the University of Georgia, and Bryant have denied the charges. Butts has said he intends to file libel suit.

Bryant has a $50,000 libel suit pending against the Post in connection with another article about football brutality.

The request for a retraction was made yesterday in a telegram to Curtiss Publishing Co., Philadelphia, from Butt's attorney, William Schroder.

INTERVIEW PLAYERS

Georgia Atty. Gen. Eugene Cook began an investigation yesterday and said he may interview Alabama players. He had not decided whether Georgia players would be interviewed.

Cook said Butts and Bryant both will be questioned, as will Georgia Coach Johnny Griffith; Dr. O. C. Aderhold, president of the University of Georgia, and the writer of the Post article, Frank Graham Jr., a free-lance writer.

The state investigation was ordered by Gov. Carl E. Sanders after the Post charged that Butts gave Bryant detailed information about Georgia's team eight days before the game, which Alabama won 35-0.

George Burnett, an Atlanta insurance salesman, was quoted in the magazine story as saying that he overheard a telephone conversation between Butts and Bryant.

Burnett said in a statement yesterday that "an impulsive desire that the truth be known" led him to provide the Post with the story.

Stilt Sets New Record For Accuracy

NEW YORK (AP)—Wilt Chamberlain of the San Francisco Warriors won his fourth straight National Basketball Assn. scoring championship and also set a record for field goal percentage during the 1962-63 season that ended Sunday.

Final league statistics showed today that Chamberlain accumulated 3,586 points in 80 games for a 44.8 average. The 7-foot-1 Stilt compiled a .528 shooting percentage from the field, bettering the previous mark of .513 set by Walt Bellamy of the Chicago Zephyrs last season.

Chamberlain connected on 1,463 shots in 2,770 field goal tries.

Elgin Baylor of the Los Angeles Lakers wound up second in the point-production race with 2,719 points and a 34.0 average. Oscar Robertson of the Cincinnati Royals finished third with 2,264 points, averaging 28.3.

STEELHEAD ARE RUNNING IN KLAMATH RIVER

YREKA (UPI) — The steelhead are running in the Klamath River in record numbers.

Fishermen reported today limit catches every time they hit the water with their lures between Happy Camp to Hornbrook, a distance of 75 miles.

"It's a record run," reported John Regimato of the Shasta-Cascade Wonderland Assn. "Everybody gets a limit of three fish weighing an average of five pounds each. results."

Steelhead were first noticed making a spring run on the Klamath River last spring; and they returned in big schools this time.

Service Unnecessary

NEW YORK (UPI)—An appliance company says a recent survey showed nearly half of all service calls on home laundry appliances are unnecessary, adding 50 million dollars annually to service bills.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

Pity The 'Poor' Dodgers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Pity the poor Los Angeles Dodgers.

They started the spring worrying about Sandy Koufax' sore left index finger. Now they're concerned about Tommy Davis' play around third base, which is beginning to stick out like a sore thumb.

Koufax again served notice that he has fully recovered from the circulatory trouble that sidelined him after midseason last year by piling up 13 strikeouts in seven innings against the Chicago White Sox yesterday at Sarasota, Fla.

Davis, though, hardly looked like a Pie Traynor or a Billy Cox. The All-Star left fielder, who is being tested at third base, set up three unearned runs with a wild throw in the third inning that led to a 5-4 victory for the White Sox.

WINNING MARGIN

A solo homer in the sixth inning by Deacon Jones provided the White Sox with their winning margin. It was the only earned run they collected off Koufax, who now has looked sharp in three straight spring tuneups.

Dodger manager Walt Alston may be forced to switch Davis back to left field where he led the National League in batting last season with a .34€ average.

Casey Stengel, who should have such problems, enjoyed one of his rare days in the Florida sun yesterday when he watched his New York Mets blank his old New York Yankees, 1-0, behind the combined five-hit pitching of Roger Craig and Al Jackson at St. Petersburg.

The Mets, held scoreless by Ralph Terry over the first six innings, pushed across the games only run off Hal Reniff in the seventh on a hit batsman, an infield out, an error by Tony Kubek and a single by Larry Burright.

Catcher John Orsino, obtained from the San Francisco Giants in an off-season deal, hit three consecutive home runs off lefty Jim O'Toole to give the unbeaten Baltimore Orioles their ninth straight victory—a 4-3 decision over the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa.

Orsino's first homer came in the third inning after a double by Jerry Adair. He hit No. 2 in the fifth frame and No. 3 in the seventh before fouling out off rookie Lefty John Flavin in the ninth.

CARDS LOSE

The Detroit Tigers scored their fourth straight victory on home runs by Rocky Colavito, Norm Cash and Gus Triandos after spotting the St. Louis Cordinals five runs in the first inning. Bob Anderson, who pitched one-hit ball for three innings, raised his spring record to 3-0.

Singles by Norm Larker and Mack Jones and catcher Ken Retzer's error produced the Braves' winning run against the Senators. Eddie Mathews paced a nine-hit Milwaukee attack with two doubles.

San Jose State Looms As Nat'l Track Power

SAN JOSE (UPI) — San Jose State edged Oregon State 78½ to 66½ yesterday in a track and field meet that placed both teams among the nation's top cinder powers.

Outstanding times and performances were turned in throughout the afternoon with perhaps the best occurring when Oregon State's Gary Stenlund tossed the Javelin 254' 5½" for a new stadium mark.

San Jose soph Dwight Middleton won the 440 in :46.9 and the 220 around a curve in :21.4. He anchored the 440 relay to victory in :41.4.

Beaver Norm Hoffman won his 880 battle with San Jose's Mike Gibeau. Hoffman sizzled the two laps in 1:49.5 while Gibeau settled for an excellent 1:51.

Oregon State's Morgan Groth won the mile easily in 4:07.9, while Spartan distance ace Ben Tucker was second in a disappointing 4:12.5.

San Jose soph Bob Lovejoy surprised with a high jump of 6' 9¼" while the Spartans' briliant distance tandem of Dan Murphy and Jeff Fishback finished in 9:05.3 and 9:14.9 for the first two spots. Both should get under 9 minutes before long.

Bill Sargent Dies, Ex-L.A. Grid Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—William Sargent, 56, former Loyola University football coach, died of a heart attack yesterday at St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood.

He was head coach of the Los Angeles Bulldogs and the Hollywood Rangers. His Bulldogs won the Pacific Coast pro football championship in 1947.

Cepeda Isn't Jealous, But He's Determined To Outshine Mays

CONNOLLY

Nowhere in professional sports will you find such sincere, divided opinions on two stars as you find here. I refer to the case of Willie Mays and Orlando Cepeda. The inquiries, the curiosity and the just plain "busy-bodies" is fantastic to observe.

No sooner had the "Baby Bull" arrived in camp, after a protracted hassle over salary matters, than he was the main event for the question and answer scribes. What a going over they gave him! Only a guy with the patience of Job and the diplomacy of Winston Churchill could escape unharmed.

Are you sore at Willie Mays? Are you envious of his salary? Do you think you'll ever make as much money as he does?

It was a sight to see and a thing to behold to observe the Baby Bull trying to be poised, gentle and smart. He wasn't the playboy any more. Rather he was grim and honest. He spoke with the air of authority.

Of course there can't be any definite proof that Cepeda is jealous. He won't admit it. He is the first to deny it.

BUT TAKE it from one who has seen a lot of the Cepeda type in baseball: Orlando isn't envious; he isn't jealous of Mays, but he is out to outhit, outhustle and outshine the little centerfielder. Make on mistake. He's determined.

Mays, on the other hand, is nonchalant and, I believe truthfully, is of such a nature that envy or jealousy has no place in his makeup. He's been the head-man so long; he's gotten what he wants; he's been pampered and he never has for a moment stopped to wonder what Cepeda or his other teammates might feel about his actions.

Mays is bigger and more accustomed to the plaudits of the fans. It has been ringing in his ears for 10 years or more. He's tops and knows it. He likes the limelight and gets it without asking for it. There is no contest in Willie's mind between him and any other player in the game. Willie is just so good he is beginning to believe he should have been twins.

WILLIE IS All-American in his ideas. He's much broader in his outlook on life and much more secure than Cepeda.

But don't sell Cepeda short. He has the ability, the strength, the pride, the determination of a Giant. And he is obsessed with his own ambition to outshine Mays.

That, folks, is the outlook for the two biggest S.F. Giant stars as the 1963 season approaches. Who will win isn't important. But how he will win is the big question.

CEPEDA, SO the boys who study human emotions tell me, is much more temperamental, much more emotional and much more of a problem than quiet little Willie and his screeching voice.

Mays isn't moody; Cepeda has a dozen different moods, including one of anger that could be costly. However, he has learned to control it pretty well.

Those of his teammates who understand Cepeda classify him as the proudest man they've ever known.

"Orlando is not jealous of Willie," one of his closest friends says, "but he would like to think he can be as important to the club as Willie is, and I think he will prove it."

ANOTHER VERSION of Orlando from one of his own friends is that Orlando has changed.

"He isn't playboy no more. He is very grim and determined. I think it is going to make for greater rivalry, greater team spirit. If they both play harder the fans will like it better and the Giants will win many more games," says a warm friend of Cepeda's, off the record.

Cepeda professes to like Dark and denies he has ever had any arguments with him. That might sound okay but it isn't exactly true. They may have had no serious beefs, but Cepeda wants Dark to relax on him as he does on Mays. He likes to feel that he's needed and wanted. The combination of Mays and Cepeda is a hassle to better each other and is fine and dandy for baseball and particularly for the 1963 Giants.

TV Bout

Cal Heavy Gets Encore This Week

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Wayne Thornton, a smash hit in his big time debut last month, makes an encore appearance Saturday night against Willie Pastrano at Madison Square Garden and on television.

The hard-hitting, 23-year-old Californian drew cheers and earned a place in the boxing rankings last Feb. 9 when he trounced Pastrano with a rib-rattling body attack.

With this resounding upset, Thornton racked up his ninth straight victory and gained a No. 8 ranking among the light heavyweights from the WBA. Ring Magazine ranked him ninth. Pastrano, 28, a long time contender, is ranked fifth by the WBA and eighth by Ring.

BRIGHT FUTURE

Thornton has a 27-2 record, including 18 kayos. Judging by the way he was able to reach the usually elusive Pastrano, he seems headed for a bright future. A genuine body puncher these days is a rarity indeed, and when you find a rookie who can handle himself inside you've got to mark him as something special.

Pastrano, however, could be a lot tougher this time, now that he knows Thornton is for real. He also knows that another defeat could cost him his ranking. His record is 57-11-7, including 12 knockouts.

The 10-rounder will be telecast naitonally by ABC-TV, starting at 7 p.m., PST.

Ramos Faces Weight Problem For L.A. Title Go Thursday

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ultiminio Sugar Ramos, the No. 1 contender for featherweight champion Davey Moore's crown may be the only fighter facing a weight-making problem in Thursday's triple title boxing show in Dodger Stadium.

The 21-year-old knockout artist from Mexico City had a rough time making the prescribed 126 pounds last Saturday for his title bid with Moore.

The weight, and a possible letdown when the entire card was washed out by rain, may pose a serious problem for the young refugee from Cuba.

Ramos, The Associated Press was reliably informed today, was two pounds over the weight early in the morning of the original weigh-in. It took quite a bit of hasty conditioning to pare him down.

Ramos made it—right on the nose.

Moore came in at 125½.

Weight - making apparently was no grave problem for the other principals on the Thursday card.

Welterweight champion Emile Griffith of New York scaled 145 pounds, two under the limit, for his title defense against Luis Rodriguez of Miami, Fla.

Favored Raymundo Battling Torres of Reynosa, Mex., was right on the 140-pound limit for his 15-round go with youthful Roberto Cruz of the Philippines, who was three pounds under.

Another Outbreak In NCAA-AAU War

NEW YORK (AP)—Who won the latest outbreak of the feud between the Amateur Athletic Union and the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. was anybody's guess today.

The fuss broke out anew last night over the interpretation of a letter Gen. Douglas MacArthur wrote in ruling on an application of the United States Track and Field Federation for the right to sanction open meets as well as the AAU.

The 82-year-old five star general, recently appointed arbitrator by President Kennedy to settle the differences between the groups, wrote that "the arguments of neither group are convincing and one is inclined to suspect that the real animation of both rests upon the issue of international prestige. The differences discussed in their briefs are more apparent than real and there would be little cause for quarrel were it not for the emotional reflexes involved."

MAC'S OPINION

The general concluded: "It is my opinion that the USTFF in approving authorizing or sanctioning the participation of athletes under its jurisdiction to compete in open track and field meets and events in this country should approve, authorize or sanction the athletes themselves or the institutions of learning they represent rather than the meet itself, with information thereon furnished to meet sponsors. This is without prejudice to either the USTFF or the AAU to any position on which either may desire to stand or action it may desire to take after the 1964 Olympic Games."

This was interpreted as a victory by Louis Fisher, of High Point, N.C., president of the AAU, to whom the letter was addressed as well as William Russell, Inglewood, Calif., president of the USTFF.

Russell said in his opinion the MacArthur view was not to be considered final and binding. Walter Byers, executive secretary of the NCAA, declared that "The AAU must be suffering from hallucinations or wishful thinking if it interprets Gen. MacArthur's ruling" as a rejection of the USTFF stand.

Marin Judo Star Third In Nationals

Marin County Probation Officer Mel Augustine, 32, won third place in the national AAU judo championships held at Fresno State College last weekend.

Competing in the "open class" (all weights), Augustine lost only to Ben Campbell of Sacramento, who went on to win the national title. Campbell will represent the United States in the Pan American Games in Brazil next month.

Augustine won the Pacific Coast AAU championship last month before going to the nationals in Fresno. He stands 6 feet 1 inch and weighs a solid 205 pounds.

Entries are divided into single and double matches in four classes for both boys and girls. They are: 18 years of age and under, 16 and under, 14 and under, 12 and under. A special class for younger singles players, both boys and girls 10 and under, also is scheduled.

Tryouts will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. and Selna said positions on his team are open to all Marin County players aged 16 and olders.

The Merchants will compete in the San Rafael Invitational Semi-Pro Tournament May 2-19 along with Billings Hutchison Builders of San Rafael, San Anselmo Merchants and five other top-flight teams from the Bay Area.

$100 Taken From Sausalito Boat Shop

Thieves used a glass cutter to break into Sausalito's Edgewater Boat Shop Saturday night and steal $100 from the cash register, Police Chief Howard Goerndt said yesterday.

This is the next development of the proposed 4,200 unit subdivision of the Freitas C Ranch, being developed by Sunset International Petroleum Corp.

Dog's Bite May Lead To Treatment

A 13-year-old girl faces a painful series of anti-rabies shots unless her family can locate a bushy-coated dog that romped onto Rancho Rio Road in Kent Woodlands March 9 and bit her leg.

The girl, Kathy O'Kane of San Rafael, was aboard a motor scooter with a friend, Lisa Dollar, when she was bitten on the leg, according to Mrs. Jack Dollar of 36 North Ridgewood, Kent Woodlands.

"The dog would merely be examined and put under quarantine until it was certain he didn't have rabies," said Mrs. Dollar. "My daughter described him as looking like an Airedale but with a long tail. He had a bushy, rusty brown coat and was medium sized. The dog was with two girls."

Miss O'Kane, a student at Dominican Convent, must begin her shots if the dog is not located by Saturday. Mrs. Dollar said that anyone with information about the dog may call Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. O'Kane at 231 Sienna Way, San Rafael, or the Marin County Humane Society, 402 Third Street, San Rafael. There would be no cost to the dog's owner, she emphasized.

Independent Research Verifies Effectiveness of World's Largest-selling Toothpaste:

Newest Clinical Test Confirms

Colgate A Leader in Reducing New Cavities!

Read what happened when Colgate with Gardol was clinically tested against the most widely accepted fluoride dentifrice

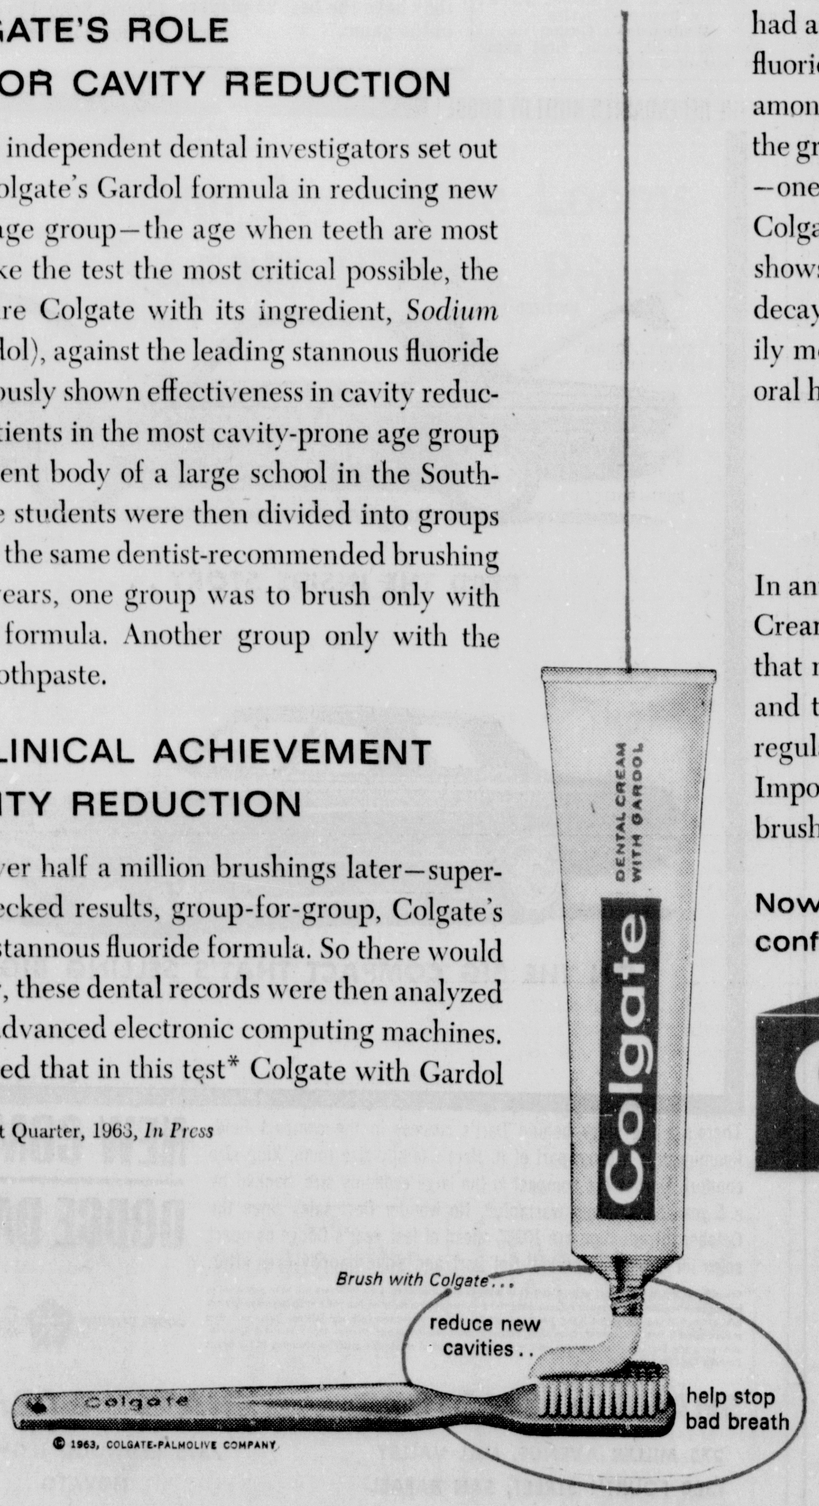
COLGATE'S ROLE IN NEW TEST FOR CAVITY REDUCTION

In October, 1960, a group of independent dental investigators set out to determine the value of Colgate's Gardol formula in reducing new cavities in the 7 to 17 year age group—the age when teeth are most vulnerable to decay. To make the test the most critical possible, the researchers chose to measure Colgate with its ingredient, Sodium N-Lauroyl Sarcosinate (Gardol), against the leading stannous fluoride toothpaste, which had previously shown effectiveness in cavity reduction. Hundreds of dental patients in the most cavity-prone age group were selected from the student body of a large school in the Southeastern United States. These students were then divided into groups and instructed to use exactly the same dentist-recommended brushing method. For the next two years, one group was to brush only with Colgate's exclusive Gardol formula. Another group only with the leading stannous fluoride toothpaste.

COLGATE'S CLINICAL ACHIEVEMENT IN CAVITY REDUCTION

At the end of two years—over half a million brushings later—supervising dentists carefully checked results, group-for-group, Colgate's Gardol formula against the stannous fluoride formula. So there would be no chance of human error, these dental records were then analyzed and compared by the most advanced electronic computing machines. Statistically, it was discovered that in this test* Colgate with Gardol had achieved the same low incidence of new cavities as the stannous fluoride formula. When you consider that the study was conducted among the most cavity-prone of all age groups, results achieved by the group brushing with Colgate are even more significant. This study—one of many planned to acquaint you and your dentist with the Colgate-Palmolive Company's continuing interest in dental hygiene—shows what today's Colgate Dental Cream can do in reducing tooth decay. Its results are wonderful assurance that even the youngest family member can brush with Colgate . . . in the complete program of oral hygiene dentists recommend.

Journal of Dentistry for Children, First Quarter, 1963, In Press



YOUR DENTIST'S ROLE IN CAVITY REDUCTION

In announcing the results of this study, the makers of Colgate Dental Cream emphasize their agreement with leading dental authorities that no toothpaste—fluoride or non-fluoride—can substitute for care and treatment of teeth by your family dentist. Seeing your dentist regularly is the most important part of any dental-health program. Important, too, is his advice on diet, as well as how to brush, when to brush, and how often to brush.

Now you can be a "one-toothpaste family" again with confidence in Colgate's clinically-tested Gardol formula!

Colgate helps stop mouth odor instantly for most people—has the between-teeth cleaning action of penetrating Gardol foam and the most mouth-refreshing toothpaste taste in the whole world!

GARDOL IS COLGATE'S TRADE-MARK FOR SODIUM N-LAUROYL SARCOSINATE

SO CHILDREN MAY LEARN

Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae cut and stitch together one of the 10 cloth "self-help books" that teach handicapped children at Marindale School the everyday skills they need to dress themselves. The book's cloth pages contain buttons with buttonholes, zippers, grippers, eyelets for practicing lacing, pockets, and hooks. A rhyme accompanies each skill presented on the aqua, yellow or blue pages. Here, from left, Mrs. Thomas Rappsilber trims material while Mrs. Keith Roberts sews a "page" on the machine and Mrs. George Walton stitches a pocket onto a page and places in it a handkerchief which the children can practice removing. Project chairman Mrs. Robert DeWilde said that one of the Alpha Chi members made such a book for Marindale last year, used with such success that the school has asked the alumnae to produce more, which they are doing at work sessions such as this at the Roberts home in San Rafael.

LIKE A CHESS GAME

Mother, Daughter Clothe Society

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clothing some of New York and Palm Beach society's best-dressed women often resembles a chess game. You have to guess what move they'll make next.

This was the way Mrs. Fred Manulis of Palm Beach, Fla., summed up one of the factors of costumer service that has turned a mother-daughter team of fashion shop operation into an annual multi-million dollar enterprise.

"We have to know the group, the cliques in which they move," said Lynn Manulis, the daughter half of the combo.

"It sometimes is like a chess game."

"BUT MOST of our customers need worry little about a repeat performance on a gown," she continued. "They're the type who live in Palm Beach, New York, Paris, on the Riviera . . . one dress plays to a variety of audiences."

Daughter Lynn, a striking blonde who once acted on Broadway, in television and on radio, runs the Palm Beach shop on Worth Avenue. She lives in the fashionable resort with her husband, a physician, and the couple's two children —a daughter, 14, and a son, 10.

HER MOTHER, Mrs. Philip R. Phillips, stays more closely with the New York shop on Fifth Avenue and both have a hand in running a third branch at Bal Harbour, Fla.

The shops are named simply Martha, for the mother, born Martha Rollins, daughter of a tailor and once a model for the late Maurice Rentner, a New York dress manufacturer.

I TALKED with the daughter when she made a flying visit to Manhattan to clinch a deal with Norman Norell, the award-winning designer. Martha shops are sponsoring an American Cancer Society benefit at which Bob Hope will act as emcee. Norell agreed to fly his spring and summer collection, plus accessories, plus six mannequins, to Palm Beach, to participate.

MARTHA PHILLIPS first opened shop in New York in 1932—"a good year for a new business to start," laughed her daughter. Neighbors occupying the same small building at the time included John-Frederics, the milliners, and Estee Lauder, the cosmetician, all of whom were to grow from those depression days into fabulous successes.

The mother went to Palm Beach in the early 1940s as a visitor and decided what the staid colony needed was a bright, cheerful place to shop.

"IN THOSE days," said Mrs. Manulis, "Palm Beach was filled with the old guard society. It was no dateline Palm Beach as it is today with the Kennedy's."

Mrs. Phillips opened for business at the resort in 1945, operating only "during the season," which in those days—her daughter said—"ran from right after Christmas through February 21st when a Washington's birthday ball ended it. Now, the season is more like six months."

MRS. PHILLIPS talked her daughter into joining the business in 1950. Today, the mother is president; the daughter, vice president. And both comb New York and European markets for exclusive items for their wealthy customers. They also have workrooms in Paris where some of the fabrics are jewelled or embroidered—"We wouldn't be able to find equally skilled workers here," she said.

THE TWO handle all the big names of the fashion design world in New York and Europe, with prices starting at $295 for say a Swiss-made cotton to "in the $1,000's" for fabulous ball gowns.

MRS MANULIS said customers include Mrs. Herbert May, the heiress to a great fortune and mother of actress Dina Merrill; Mme. Jacques Balsan, the former Duchess of Marlborough;

Mrs. Charles Wrightsman who frequently is hostess to President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy; Princess Radziwill, the First Lady's sister; Mrs. Winston Guest, who was on the annual best-dressed lists so many times she finally was moved up to the "Hall of Fame" and out of competition;

Mrs. Michael Phipps and daughter Nona of the real estate family; and Mrs. Frank McMahon, wife of the Canadian oil magnate.

"The First Lady herself has not come into the Palm Beach shop," said Mrs. Manulis, "but I understand some of the purchases Princess Radziwill has made were for her."

LYNN MANULIS called Mrs. Kennedy "a representative of a young, vibrant America in dress. But what is yet to come is the ultimate sophistication of a Mrs. Loel Guinness."

Mrs. Kennedy and Mrs. Guinness, of Palm Beach, Paris, and Lausanne, both headed the last list of best-dressed women.

Jerry Is Bright Enough But His Grades Are Sinking Lower

Jerry is a tall, good-looking boy of 11. His eyes are bright, alert, full of intelligence. But his grades are low; his teacher is about to fail him. She reports he is discourteous, inattentive, insolent. He is in the principal's office now for failing to obey one of her requests.

Jerry comes from a home where he has learned good manners, but he doesn't rise as the principal's secretary comes into the room from a door behind him. In fact, he doesn't even turn when she speaks his name. He jumps when she touches his shoulder.

What's the matter with Jerry? An early case of teen-age rebellion? A mind not as bright as his eyes seem to indicate? A chronic touch of spring fever? None of these. Fortunately, Jerry's principal suspects the real problem and directs his parents to the right source of help. The truth is, Jerry's hearing is faulty.

Now Jerry wears a hearing aid. It's all in one piece, and it fits snugly into one ear so he hardly notices it. But what a difference it has made! His inattention has turned to responsiveness. He's no longer discourteous because he has lost his need to cover up a lack of understanding. His grades are up where they belong. Jerry is sure to be promoted instead of failed.

How long has it been since you've had your youngsters' eyes and ears tested? Are you sure they can hear the teacher even from a back seat, and see the blackboard clearly? If they can't they're in trouble and even they may not know why. Hidden handicaps have given too many young victims undeserved reputations for stupidity or laziness. Better check to be sure.

Mealtime dawdling is a common toddler problem. If it attracts attention, or provokes annoyance on your part, dawdling may easily develop into a hard-to-break habit. Allowance should be made for a child's lack of skill but if a meal stretches beyond a reasonable period it's wise to remove the food calmly and without comment. Once your toddler learns that stalling will net him naught, he'll mind his eating P's and Q's better.

Eager eaters are those who enjoy their food. And enjoyment of food comes naturally with Gerber Junior Foods. Colors are truly appeteasing. Flavors literally sing! Seasoning is added with a deft hand to suit the more "grown-up" tastes of budding gourmets. All are designed with mealtime pleasure in mind...and each and every one is specially prepared to preserve the utmost in precious food values.

"Feet grow—shoes don't." Wise words and true when it comes to toddlers. So it's a good idea to check shoes frequently for proper fit. Telltale signs that signal the need for new shoes:

• Tightness across instep and toe.

• Wrinkled leather, bulging sides, sagging at the heels.

P.S. If you lightly sandpaper the soles of new shoes, you'll spare your slightly wobbly toddler a tumble or two. Especially on a slippery kitchen floor.

Two Soloists Are To Appear Before Thursday Musical Club

Soprano Corrine Swall and bariton Shapleigh Howell will be guest artists for the Thursday Musical Club at 2:30 p.m., on Thusrday in the San Anselmo home of Mrs. Sidney Higgins.

The program will include French Art songs, German Lieder, opera duets and musican comedy duets. Accompaniest will be Leroy Miller.

Upon graduation from the University of California in Berkeley, and later from the Juilliard School of Music in New York, Miss Swall firmly established her reputation in the East as soloist with the Philadelphia Orchestra, in leading operatic roles, chamber music concerts, and recitals. During her two years in Europe, she was the singing star in Amsterdam's Carre Theatre. On returning to the United States, Miss Swall made her debut in the Bay Area as soloist with Arthur Fiedler and the San Francisco Symphony in August, 1961. She then sang as soloist with the Orpheon Male Chorus in San Mateo and with the San Rafael Chamber Orchestra.

Born and educated in South Dakota, Howell continued his University studies in the state of Washington. After military service he returned to the San Francisco Bay area. He toured in an Operatic Quartet playing Pagliacci Playhouse. Recent appearances include the San Francisco Opera Guild production of Rossini's "The Turk in Italy," in which he played the role of the Poet.

Howell is currently appearing in the San Francisco Opera Guild production of Strauss' "Die Fledermaus" at the on Broadway Theatre in the dual roles of Frank, the Jailer, and Dr. Blind.

CORINNE SWALL

Following the program, tea will be served.

Mrs. T. Carson O'Connell and Mrs. A. D. Gough are co-chairmen, assisted by Mesdames Harold Elliott, William Vaning, Babcock Smith, and John Anton.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Here Is Strange, Fatal Disease Confined Mainly To New Guinea

VAN DELLEN

Kuru is a fatal disease confined mainly to certain clans of the Fore people in New Guinea. This, malady, was unheard of before 1954, when an Australian patrol established contact with the Fore tribe. They were true stone-age peoples, according to a report in World Health, practicing ritual killings, sorcery, and ceremonial cannibalism.

The patrol leader wrote in his diary: "Proceeding SW across range, and down and across a small creek ascending to Amusi village, nearing one of the dwellings, I observed a small girl sitting down beside the fire. She was shivering violently and her head was jerking spasmodically from side to side. I was told she was a victim of sorcery and would continue this shivering, unable to eat, until death claimed her within a few weeks."

THE FORE PEOPLE are certain the disease stems from witchcraft. To physicians, it is a medical mystery. Heredity is blamed because the disorder is limited to isolated tribes where intermarriage is common.

Dengeneration of the central nervous system occurs, which leads to the trembling, head jerking, spasms, and paralysis. In some respects it resembles multiple sclerosis in man but behaves more like a veterinary disease, scrapie, that attacks certain breeds of sheep. The latter is a viral infection with a strong genetic trait.

THERE IS NO treatment or remedy for Kuru and all victims die, usually less than a year after the onset. In some villages, it kills half the adult women and many boys and girls. The mystery will be solved in time but it will take research.

Kuru is so prevalent it threatens the existence of the Fore tribe. So many parents succumb, the care of orphans has become a major problem. The government has a building for these unfortunate children and the Lutheran Mission built a hospital exclusively for Kuru victims.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DIZZINESS AND AGE

P. V. C. writes: Why do so many oldsters suffer from dizziness?

REPLY

There are many causes of dizziness and some are no more common in the aged than in the young. On the other hand, certain reflexes become less active with the passing years. On rising from a sitting or reclining position, for example, the older individual may feel giddy. The reflex that brings more blood to the brain is sluggish and the person feels woozy for a moment or two. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on dizziness.

FATTY TUMORS

G. S. writes: Fifteen years ago I had a fatty tumor removed from my arm. Now I have more, some the size of a pea and others as large as a nut. Will these lumps turn to cancer if they are not taken out?

REPLY

These tumors seldom become cancerous but some people develop one fatty tumor after another. One is removed and another pops out somewhere else.

EASY LIVING

A. V. writes: Do tranquilizers cause a gain in weight? I've put on 20 pounds since I started taking this drug.

REPLY

Yes, provided you were tranquilized to the extent of not wanting to do anything but eat and rest.

VENTILATING YOUR CONFLICTS

E. F. writes: How do you give yourself a mental purge every now and then, as suggested in your hint?

REPLY

Talk about your problems and air your gripes.

Today's Health Hint—Everybody needs love, especially children.

Drake Yearbook Dates Announced

The Sir Francis Drake High School yearbook, the Buccaneer, will be distributed between June 5 and 10, announced Helen Boyd and Karen Ardito, co-editors.

A larger yearbook, the 1963 Buccaneer includes a two-page color spread of the Drake campus and 11 more pages than last year's book. Ten special editors have been in charge of the sections.

Photographers May Apply At Tamalpais

Photographers wishing to make application to take photographs of Tamalpais High School seniors at the senior ball June 14 are invited to submit samples of their work, plus rates, to the school by March 26, Principal Robert H. Prather said today. Two 8-by-10 inch photographs are requested.

Senior class officers, and Sue Kemper, School Nurse, and William Wallace, English teacher, acting as senior adviser, will select the photographer. All identifications will be blanked off the photographs, Prather said.
